VOL. 37 No. 42 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, August 29, 1992 | 60¢ Per Copy | $19.00 Per Year

SCHNECKSVILLE (Lehigh Co.) — Nancy Semmel remembers a neighbor saying to her, "I can visualize this farm being a golf course. We need a golf course in this area, and I can see this farm being a golf course."

The North Whitehall area northwest of Allentown, where the Semmels live, exemplifies the struggle — huge, thriving potato fields, swine operations, beef farms, and dairies taken by development. The once livestock-rich Lehigh Valley area is now the bedroom community of suburbanites commuting to Allentown or home to New Jersey retirees. The land surrounding the Semmel residence, once made up of vegetable and small grain farms, now holds multi-thousand dollar houses with three-car garages and apartment complexes.

But farming continues apace at the Dairy of Distinction Excelsior Farm, operated by the Semmel family, which includes State Representative (R-187th District) Paul W. Semmel, wife Nancy, and children Lisa, 29; Andrea, 24; and Shannon, 16. In addition, the farm has the full-time help of herdsman Jerry Fleck and farmhand Titus Bennicoff.

The farm, comprising 140 tillable (and an additional 75 rented) is home to 73 milking and six dry registered Holsteins, and another 100 young stock. The farm milks from a freestall house/stanchion

Andrews Named 'Ag Journalist Of Year'

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Andy Andrews, Lancaster Farming staff writer, has been named "Ag Journalist of the Year" by PennAg Industries Association.

Andrews will be honored next month for a series of articles in mid-December 1991 about a report describing the importance of manure storage safety. The two-part series described how farmers may be endangering their lives working in manure structures and how many storage facilities in the state had serious shortcomings in safety, operation, and maintenance. The series described various ways farmers can recognize and work to correct the problems.

The award will be presented at PennAg's 114th Convention to be held September 13-15 at the Mountain Laurel Resort in White Haven.

PennAg, an Ephrata-based agribusiness trade organization, sponsors the journalism contest to promote excellence in writing on agribusiness.

A Lancaster County native, Andrews is a graduate of Garden Spot High School, New Holland.

Andy Andrews

He received a Bachelor of Arts degree in journalism from Temple University, Philadelphia. Prior to joining Lancaster Farming in 1990, he was a senior technical editor for Semcor, Inc., Warminster and a communications specialist for Lukens, Inc., Coatesville.

Sheep Is Supreme At Elizabethtown

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Four judges deliberated overtime as they sought to choose the most perfect animal shown at the Elizabethtown Fair this week.

To the cheers of the crowd gathered underneath the tent for the Supreme Champion contest, Ryan Tracy's Suffolk yearling ewe was pinpointed as the perfect example of the sheep species. The Suffolk competed against Janelle Wivel's Holstein cow, Peter Hoffines Charolais-Angus steer, and Kevin Pfautz's Duroc-Hampshire hog, to earn the traveling trophy given annually to the supreme champion winner.

"This Suffolk yearling ewe has style, flash, and balance. It's the perfect example of its breed with its jet black points and head. It has a clean, refined neck and muscling through the top into its hindquarters," judge Natalie Glunz told the crowd.

Tracy is the 12-year-old son of Gerald and Helen Tracy of Elizabethtown. He purchased the Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, August 26, 1992

Trucklot buying interest was very light on all items. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were at least adequate for current needs but most buyers were very cautious and selective. Line run breasts were fully adequate to ample and offered out for buyer bids. However, most buyers were sitting on full coolers and were not interested in adding to their floor stocks. Leg quarters were fully adequate and pushed to clear at lower trending prices. Wings were available and buyers were selective. Prices trended lower on light and scattered trading and the undertone was unsettled.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, August 26, 1992

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was disappointing and generally no better than fair. Supplies easily satisfied current buyer interest. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged to lower at 47-62 cents. Live supplies were moderate to instances heavy. Slaughter schedules were heavy. Trade sentiment was steady at best. Parts activity was slow and disappointing.

Your Farm Credit Banker. Nobody Knows The Field Better.

You'll find Farm Credit Bankers buttoned up, ready to talk short- or long-term loans, mortgages and sophisticated lines of credit.

Underneath the shirt and tie, you'll find the one thing the other banks don't offer. A fellow farmer.

Most Farm Credit loan officers were born and raised on farms and got their college degrees from ag schools.

And, if that's not enough, every single one of our loan officers goes through the toughest ag lending training program in America.

That means when you talk to a Farm Credit loan officer about any kind of ag loan, you won't have to waste your time translating to someone who's book smart but farm foolish.

What's more, because Farm Credit loan officers understand farming as well as they understand finances, they're not only smarter, they're faster. After all, they have the same loan closing authority as many local bank presidents.

So when you need competitive rates or creative options, see your local Farm Credit banker. Because nobody knows the field better.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City, Okla.

Attention Dodge City
OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY.

Compared with last week: Steers of all weights and heifers over 700 lbs. unevenly steady to $2.00 lower. Heifers under 700 lbs. steady. Good portion of downturn noted on Brahma cross. Demand uneven; moderate to good for English and exotic cross, fair for Brahma cross. Weigh conditions simialr to last week, average to full. Flesh condition also uneven with increase in moderately fleshy cattle noted; however majority of feeders still on the thinner side with some showing signs of recent weight loss. Gains for yearlings on lush pastures have been a bit disappointing this summer grazing season. Abundant moisture has kept grass too washy for optimum gains. Slaughter cows $1.00 higher. Slaughter bulls steady. Cow and bull demand good; packer and country buyers both taking about 50 percent. Receipts this week 9,650; last week 11,906; last year 10,853. Supply consisted of 73% yearlings over 600 lbs.; 23% calves; 4% cows and bulls. Bulk prices follow; weighted average prices in parenthesis:

Feeder Steers: Medium and Large Frame 1, 325-400 lbs. $110.00-$113.50; 450-500 lbs. $98.00-$105.25 ($101.99); 500-550 lbs. $90.00-$99.00 ($93.36); 550-600 lbs. $87.50-$95.50 ($92.62); 600-700 lbs. $85.00-$90.00 ($87.87); 700-750 lbs. $83.50-$87.50 ($84.30); 750-800 lbs. $80.00-$85.00 ($82.81); 800-850 lbs. $81.00-$84.50 ($83.07); 850-900 lbs. $79.50-$83.00 ($80.68); 900-1000 lbs. $75.00-$81.00 ($78.67). Large Frame 2 Holsteins, 275-350 lbs. $93.00-$98.00; 400-450 lbs. $83.00-$90.00; 600-700 lbs. $72.75-$78.50; 700-800 lbs. $69.75-$74.00; 800-875 lbs. $66.00-$68.75.

Feeder Heifers: Medium and Large Frame 1, 350-375 lbs. $99.75-$104.75; 400-500 lbs. $88.00-$94.00 ($92.27); 500-550 lbs. $85.00-$90.00 ($87.40); 550-600 lbs. $84.00-$87.50 ($86.70); 600-650 lbs. $83.25-$87.00 ($84.61); 650-700 lbs. $81.00-$86.25 ($82.38); 700-800 lbs. $77.75-$83.25 ($80.32).

OPINION

Consumer Health Concerns

The Food and Drug Adminstration is being pressured to stop the sale of milk and meat derived from cattle treated with bovine somatotropin (BST) despite the acknowledgment that there is no danger to humans from eating these foods.

On the other hand, for the first time since 1922, the USDA is going to openly allow U.S. companies to import ground meat from other countries even though this imported meat was grown in conditions not regulated by our system.

For some time, U.S. meat and milk producers have expressed frustration over the fact that the same safety and inspection regulations to which U.S. producers are held are not imposed on foreign country meat producers. Yet these products from those meats are allowed to be imported, competing with domestic production.

Now the USDA claims its testing is so good that, despite the fineness of the grind, federal inspectors can catch efforts to mix in or substitute ground meat from animals other than those domestic species accepted in the American markets.

Meanwhile, the call for the ban on meat and milk derived from BST cattle results from investigators with the General Accounting Office (GAO), which is an agency of the U.S. Congress. The GAO has asked the FDA to stop the sale of meat and milk from BST-treated animals and also withhold commercial approval of BST because of increasing concern about indirect health effects on humans.

On one hand we have the likely situation where meat will be placed on American tables from non-regulated foreign sources while the milk and meat from BST-treated animals will be banned even though intensive scientific testing shows that there is no evidence to suggest that BST-milk and meat is of any concern for human consumption.

In the imported meats case, the consumer's health is disregarded and in the case of BST, the consumer's health is overly guarded. If you look behind the scenes, maybe it's not the health of consumers that is really of concern.

What we have noticed is that in both these situations the proposed regulations work against animal agriculture.

To Develop Management Plan

If you do not know where you are going, you cannot map out a route to get there. Also, you will not know if you are on the right road.

To be a successful business person, you need to set goals for your farm. Once you set these goals you are now ready to develop a management plan to meet these goals.

For example, if you are a dairy farmer, your goal might be to achieve a 20,000 pound herd average. Now, you need to identify the variables that affect herd average and the ones you have control over. These variables, or control points, might consist of 1. the average age of the herd, 2. milk production per cow and 3. calving interval.

Next, for each of these control points you need to establish standards that must be met so you will reach your goal. These standards then become the basis for evaluating your management.

The following example is based on figures developed by Lawrence Jones and John Conway, Cornell University. Herd profile: 40 percent first lactation cows, 30 percent second lactation cows, and 30 percent older cows, calving interval of 12.5 months, days to first service is 77, services per conception is 1.7, and heat detection rate is 65 percent.

To attain a 20,610 pound herd average, your first lactation cows would have to peak at 67 pounds, drop no more than 2.1 pounds per month and produce 18,800 pounds milk in 320 days. For second lactation cows the figures would be 80 pounds, 4.6 pounds and 22,500 pounds while the older cows need to produce 93 pounds, 5.2 pounds and 24,000 pounds.

By setting goals, you are concentrating your efforts and now have a standard to evaluate your success as a business person.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ARE YOU A MODEL CHRISTIAN?
August 30, 1992

Background Scripture:
Titus 2:7,8,11-14; 3:1-8.
Devotional Reading:
James 2:22-26

I have read somewhere that Ghandi at one time in his life was very enamored of Jesus Christ and might have become a Christian if it had not been his observation that few Christians tried to emulate their Lord. What he rejected was not Christian teachings, but Christian — or perhaps more accurately: unchristian — behaviour. He deeply respected Jesus Christ, but not many of those who claimed to be Christ's followers.

Think about the Christians who have been influential in your life. Which of these have seemed to make Christ come alive in their lives? Which of these have set an example for us to follow? Most of us can remember several people who have in some way for us incarnated Christ in some tangible way. Without some examples or models, none of us would likely be in the church today. For, although the gospel of Jesus Christ deals with ideas, it is the manifestation of those ideas in daily living that wins people to him.

NOT AN ELECTIVE

Few of us are enthusiastic about being examples or models for other Christians. While we acknowledge that examplary lives are necessary, most of us would just as soon leave that to someone else. But we cannot; Christian witness is not an elective, but a prerequisite for anyone who would be a follower of Christ. So, when Paul says to Titus, "Show yourself in all respects a model of good deeds, and in your teaching show integrity, gravity and sound speech that cannot be censured...," he is speaking to us, too.

Think for a moment: who are some of the people who might possibly be influenced for or against Christianity by the example you give? What kind of role model do you present to your family, your neighbors, your fellow workers? If someone else's Christianity depended upon the example of Christ that you manifest in your life, what kind of model are you presenting?

I said, "If someone else's Christianity depended upon" you, but there is no "if" about it. A day never goes by that someone doesn't mark our behaviour, our attitude, our way of life. We may not be aware that they are watching, but they are. The only way you can escape from influencing others, either for or against Christianity, is to completely hide your Christian discipleship, perhaps even to deny that you are a follower of Christ. And, obviously, that is something we cannot do — for our own sake, as well as for others.

GRACE & DEEDS

To be sure, Paul says that we are not saved by the example we give: "He saved us, not because of deeds done by us in righteousness, but in virtue of his own mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewal in the Holy Spirit" (3:3-7). Serving as good models of Christian living does not save us, but neither can we be saved if we fail to fulfill our tasks to let others see Christ through us. If we are saved by God's grace, we must let that grace shine forth in our lives.

MILK
AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

No matter what shape your field is in, signing up the Penetrator® from Unverferth will make you a winner in the tillage game.

After all, when you use the Penetrator, it will be the BIGGEST PLAY OF THE GAME. The Penetrator shatters the soil quickly and smoothly because its spring-loaded, edge-bent shanks deliver exceptional stiffness and reduced deflection. Adjustable shank setting allows the load to be set at 1250 or 850 pounds for excellent penetration and shattering in any field. And because of this, it's always the LAST OUT of the field, too.

Up front, separate spring-loaded gangs of three- and four-blade coulters HIT safely through residue and SCORE in uneven terrain. These gangs feature 20 inch rippled blades, to maintain their keen edge.

Adjustable depth stops allow you to STRIKE as deep as 12 inches to rip up compacted soil, while mixing soil and stirring in residue. Shanks spaced on 15 inch centers provide outstanding coverage for the entire HOME FIELD.

Honors for the MOST ERRORS will have to go elsewhere because, unlike other chisel plows, when you drop the Penetrator, it will not bounce or jump, even across compacted end rows.

Penetrator models are available in widths from 9'2" to 17'6", with optional S-tine leveler.

Breeding Sheep Tops Market, Sale Champions For Supreme Title

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Lisa and Lyndon Reiff were formidable competition when their market and sale lambs wrapped up the championships at the E-town Fair Sheep show, but Ryan Tracy proved the Reiffs are not unbeatable.

With his Suffolk breeding sheep, Tracy, of E-town, stole the Supreme Championship Sheep title when it competed against all breed, market, and sale champions.

The win was a sweet victory for 12-year-old Tracy since his 16-year-old brother Mark had claimed the same title in two previous years at the E-town Fair. The brothers and their parents, Gerald and Helen, raise about 50 Suffolk and Southdowns, 8 of which are registered Suffolk. The supreme champion was purchased in Virginia and was named champion Suffolk at the 4-H Fair.

Ryan, who has been showing sheep since he was eight, said that he was surprised by the win because the Reiffs are strong competition.

About 260 sheep paraded in the show ring before Don Witt, the

Ventilation Systems

by Aerotech,® Inc.

The health and comfort of your animals depends largely on the ventilation of the building.

TOP LEFT
In business since 1950, Aerotech® builds one of the most efficient fans on the market today. Based on independent test data as shown in the graph, Aerotech® fans move more air per watt of electricity used. This saves you money.

Aerotech® designs fans, heaters, cooling equipment and controls.

In addition to Aerotech® full-product warranty, the company gives a certified systems warranty to guarantee the performance of entire ventilation systems built by Tri-County.

BOTTOM LEFT

BOTTOM CENTER

BOTTOM RIGHT

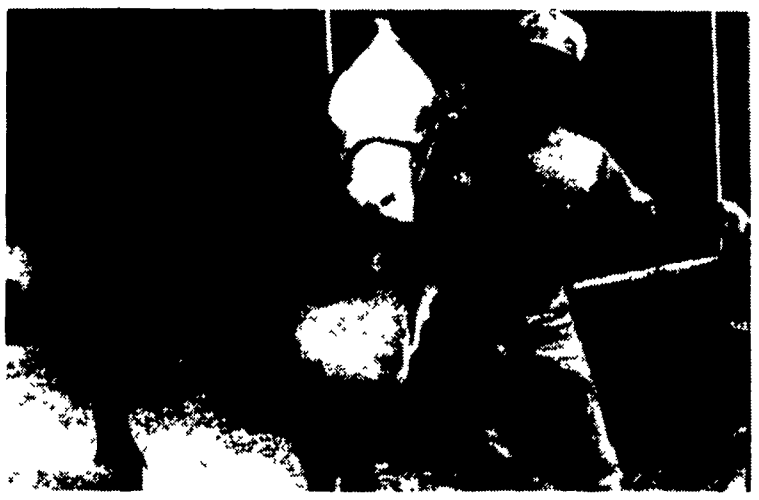
Charolais Tops Elizabethtown Beef Show

In the 15-17-year-old divison of the beef show, Jason Stoltzfus was named top showman.

Peter Hoffines of Marietta shows his Supreme Champion Beef.



John Hess received top showmanship honors in the 10- to 12-year-old divison during the Beef Show at Elizabethtown Fair.

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Peter Hoffines of Marietta showed a Charolais cross to win the Beef Show at the Elizabethtown Fair on Wednesday. "Barney" was chosen for his thickness and frame.

He is the son of Linda and Robert Hoffines, who own a beef and chicken farm. Hoffines raises three steers. He is in 11th grade and a member of FFA at Elizabethtown High School and has shown beef for three years.

Judge Bobby Livingstone of York County chose the Angus Cross owned by David Bollinger of Manheim for the reserve champion. Bollinger is the son of Darryl and Ruby Bollinger and is a ninth grader and FFA student at Manheim Central High School.

Top showmanship awards went to Jason Stoltzfus, senior division; Amy Hoffines, intermediate division; and John Hess, beginner division.

Application For All Pennsylvania Due Nov. 1

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania Junior Holstein members are reminded that the 1992 Junior All-Pennsylvania applications are due Nov. 1.

Any junior member who successfully showed at a district, regional or state show, is eligible to apply for Junior All-Pennsylvania recognition.

To apply, fill out an application and include a picture of your animal, along with a complete show record of your animal's placings.

A panel of judges will evaluate each class and name an All-Pennsylvania winner for each class, and reserve and honorable mention winners.

For more information on specifics, write the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA, 16801, or call (814) 234-0364.

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Junior All-Pennsylvania Awards will be made in 1992 under the following rules:

Aged Cow — born prior to Sept. 1, 1986.

OWNERSHIP

Each animal competing must be registered in the Herd Book of the Holstein-Freisian Association of America in the name of its Junior exhibitor and meet the requirements of Junior project work and for exhibition at 4-H, FFA, or Junior state shows or fairs. The exhibitor must be the sole owner of the animal at all shows in which she is exhibited.

The title must be by Jan. 1, 1992 for 2-year-olds and older cattle, and May 1, 1992 for calves and yearlings.

The title of all animals more than 2 years old in this competition must be shown on the registry certificater with ownership recorded by Jan. 1, 1992 as shown by the filing date on the transfer. The date of ownership on animals showing as yearlings and calves must be recorded by May 1, 1992. All ownership records will be checked by the Holstein Association of America and their decision on eligibility under this rule will be final.

PARTNERSHIP ANIMALS

Upon recommendation of the Extension Committee and management of Holstein Association of America, and in line with the rules for 4-H exhibition in the great majority of shows, all entries must stand on the association records in the individual name of the exhibitor. Senior-Junior family partnerships will not be acceptable.

QUALIFICATION FOR ENTRY

To qualify for entry in the Junior All-Pennsylvania contest, an animal must have competed in junior classes at their own county, district, state or regional show to establish their junior eligibility on their home grounds and regardless of winnings in open classes elsewhere. Junior division placings at the national shows will not qualify an animal.

CLOSING DATE

Closing date for the receipt of entries in the Junior All-Pennsylvania Awards Contest is Nov. 1. Entry is completed by submitting a suitable, professional picture of each eligible animal, together with a completed entry blank. These pictures and entry blanks should be sent to the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA, 16801. Pictures sized 5-inches by 7-inches are preferred.

AWARDS

judge who also is a York County sheep breeder.

Of the day-long Wednesday event, Witt said, "We have extremely good sheep from top to bottom. It's outstanding quality and fun to judge such quality of sheep."

Witt was also impressed with the good handling of lambs by the exhibitors. The showmanship classes packed the tent and were difficult for Witt to choose, but in final competition, the best showmanship was displayed by Lyndon Reiff in the 16-year-old and over division; Regina Landis in the 12- to 15-year-old division; and Jessica Stoltzfus, in the 11-year-old and under division.

Lyndon and Lisa Reiff of Strasburg showed the champion market and sale lambs that are known for having dimension, lots of muscle, and long length of loin.

The sheep competition was divided into three parts: market, breeding, and sale sheep. The champions of each division then competed for the Supreme Champion title, which then competes for the Supreme Champion Animal against a steer, pig, and goat.

In the market and sale sheep competition, Lyndon and Lisa Reiff of Strasburg consistently placed first for their sheep that the judge describes as having dimension, lots of muscle, and length of loin. Lyndon's heavyweight won the champion market lamb title and his lightweight captured the reserve market lamb title. In the lightweight market lamb division, Troy Bollinger took the reserve. The mediumweight champion went to Lisa and the reserve to Ryan Donough.

In the sale lamb division, Lyndon again took the championship title and his sister, Lisa, the reserve championship. Their closest competitors were Jessica Stoltzfus, who showed the lightweight champion; Carrie Groff, who showed the reserve lightweight; Melissa Becker, who showed the champion mediumweight, and Tracy Bollinger, with the reserve mediumweight.

Championships in the breed divisions went to the following: Cheviot champion and reserve, Keith Bollinger; Dorset champion and reserve, Jessica Stoltzfus. Hampshire champion Wendall Landis, reserve, Regina Landis. Shropshire champion and reserve, Lori Harnish. Southdown champion Greg Erb; reserve Mark Tracy. Suffolk champion Ryan Tracy; reserve, Jeff Bollinger. Oxford champion Katye Allen; reserve, Kerra Allen. Columbia champion and reserve, Rebecca Vogt. Tunis champion and reserve, Jill Hoffines.

The top placings in each category are as follows:

Central Champion Is 3-Year-Old

GAIL STROCK
Miffline Co. Correspondent

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — Globe-Run Starbuck Beverly, a senior 3-year-old by John Andrew Foster III, was selected grand champion of the Central Pennsylvania Championship Show held last Saturday.

Judge Genie Lorenzo Roberts of New Jersey said the competition was extremely close as she placed Suzy Stutzman's 4-year-old Philka Pete Cavalier Vicky as reserve grand champion of the open show. "We have two tremendous cows here, sound in every way," Roberts said.

Globe-Run Starbuck Beverly also earned grand champion by a junior exhibitor for Foster. Adam Tanis won reserve grand champion by a junior exhibitor for showing his senior 3-year-old Alright Dixiecart Ana.

In the heifer show, junior champion of the open show went to Robert and Rhodena Eckstine with their summer yearling Meadow-Vu Councelor Dixie.

Hearts-Desire Holsteins won the Dam and Daughter Award with Dam Ajay Desire Elevation Carol and Daughter Hearts-Desire Ajet Charity.

BELT TIGHTENERS

Fan belts will stretch with operation over time. Although most of this stretch occurs in the first month of operation, stretching will continue, reducing performance. The belt tightener will maintain constant tension keeping RPM at the designed level for efficient operation. The galvanized components resist corrosion and incorporate a compression spring to prevent the belt from jumping off the pulley at start up.

South East 4-H Dairy Show Selects For State

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — 4-H youth from the nine-county region in southeastern Pennsylvania showed their dairy cattle last week at Kutztown fairgrounds in an attempt to qualify for the state show scheduled for Sept. 21 at Harrisburg.

All 4-H dairy shows leading up to the state show are judged on the basis of the Danish system, whereby animals are not only judged against each other, but against the breed model.

Those animals which are judged to be of high enough quality to compete at a higher level get a blue ribbon. For the South East show, a modified Danish system was used including white, red and blue ribbons being presented.

Also, for the state show, the 4-H exhibitors are limited to three animals, therefore those with more than three blue ribbon animals must select their best three to take to the state show.

The show was open to all 4-H dairy project youth in Berks, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Monroe, Montgomery, Northampton, and Schuylkill counties.

Judges for the colored breed dairy cattle was David Castrogiavanni, of Montrose. John Burket, of East Freedom, was the Holstein judge.

Showmanship judge for the Holstein show was Benjamin Dum Jr., of Elliottsburg, while Robert Barley of Conestoga was fitting judge.

The grand champion of the Holstein show was G-Reu-Hel Mark Spiffy, a senior 2-year-old owned by Stacy Geist, of Mertztown. The sire was Walk Way Chief Mark and was bred by Rue-Hel Farms of Mohrsville.

Neil Rex, of Andreas, showed the reserve grand champion Holstein, a 5-year-old named Fairwood Den-Al Odyssey Mimi.

The junior champion Holstein was Reu-Hel Inspiration Rocket, a summer yearling owned by Trisha Geist, of Mertztown. It was also bred by Rue-Hel Farms.

Stephanie Kiefer, of Bangor, showed the reserve junior champion, junior yearling Otts-Own Princess, bred by Barry Ott, also of Bangor. Princess was sired by Forsberg Golden Oak.

In the Ayrshire breed, Seth Wolfgang, of Bechtelsville, showed the grand champion, 4-year-old Eureka Pride Opal. Opal was bred by Harold Kulp of Pottstown and was sired by Mar-Ral Commander's Pride.

The reserve grand champion Ayrshire was senior 2-year-old Dreamnol Johnny's Snow, shown by Kevin Nolan of Cochranville. It was bred by Robert and Sharon Nolan and sired by St. Cesaire Johnny.

The junior champion was a senior calf Valle-High Fantom Jewel, shown by Andrea Koinski, of Mohrsville. Jewel was bred by William Warms Jr., of Freeland, Md. The sire was Miller's Just Fantom.

The reserve junior champion was summer yearling HMM Amelia shown by Heath Miller, of Tamaqua. The owned and bred animal was sired by De Bui Vag Mozart.

In the Brown Swiss breed the grand champion was junior 2-year-old Wind Mill Magnum Melissa, shown by Adam Spittler of Pine Grove. The owner-bred animal was sired by Blessing Elegant Magnum.

The reserve grand champion was 5-year-old Lil-Russ Stylish Peaches, owned by Frank Miller, of Tamaqua. It was bred by Russel Miller, also of Tamaqua, and was sired by Johann Stylish.

The junior champion Brown Swiss was junior yearling Wind Mill Challenge Sweetie, owned by Derrick Hix, of Mohrsville. It was bred by Ronald Daubert of Pine

Case IH Unveils New Tractor

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Case IH today announced the introduction of a new Case International 5250 Maxxum tractor that tops the series with 112 PTO horsepower. The company also announced enhancements to both Maxxum and Magnum Series tractors at a meeting here Thursday.

The 5250 has all the features customers like about the Maxxum tractor. Transmissions match power to the job, and the unique power-shuttle shift goes from forward to reverse without clutching for greater efficiency in operations such as loader work, according to Ray Bowerman, product promotion manager. "With the added horsepower, the 5250 competes favorably with other tractors over 100 horsepower. The customer gets 7,700 pounds of hitch-lift capacity from this machine."

Other features of the 5250 include cantilever-mounted engine, heavy-cast side rails for front-end strength and a heavy weight-to-horsepower ratio, 6-inch box beam front axle on the two-wheel-drive model, and optional 3.5-inch bar-type rear axles. The 5250 is powered by the Case 6T-590 engine.

According to the company, the new Maxxum 5250 tractor also incorporates several enhancements that are now available for the entire Maxxum Series. "Case has taken a product that was already considered the best in the field and made it better," said Bowerman.

"Besides bringing in the more powerful 5250, they've increased horsepower on the other three Maxxum tractors," he said. The 5220 now delivers 80 horsepower, the 5230 delivers 90, and the 5240 delivers 100 horsepower.

Other improvements to the line include the introduction of an all-glass door, repositioned mirrors, swivel seat, in-cab hydraulic flow controls, fender-mounted hitch controls, and offset drawbar.

"Good visibility has been a key trait of Maxxum tractors, and now

Bollingers Take Grand Champion, Wivell Takes Supreme

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Ruby and Darryl Bollinger have been showing their registered Holsteins at the Elizabethtown Fair for 11 years — ever since the fair offered a dairy show — but until Thursday none of their cattle ever made the grade as a grand champion.

Judge Dennis Yousey, from Cazenovia, N.Y. made the Bollinger's 2-year-old Darr-Lyn Mandingo Vanessa grand champion of the show, despite the fact that Vanessa just freshened Sunday and wasn't in full bloom yet. (She had a heifer calf.)

Yousey complimented heavily the frame and stature of Vanessa and cited the long, easy front udder attatchments, the level udder floor and the tight, the seemingly perfect teat placements and a high rear attatchment as some of the reasons she excelled Thursday.

Also, Yousey said that he places a strong emphasis on legs and movement. "If she can't walk, she won't be milking very long," he said.

Overall, Yousey said, "They had a real nice quality of cattle, especially in the heifer show. In cows we had two extremely good cows. But there was good dairy cattle throughout."

Ruby Bollinger was beaming with the win. Ironically, the dam of Vanessa was not a highly prized animal by industry standards. Ruby said she bought the dam from a herd dispersal that was headed for beefing.

The dam had three heifers, all strong quality. Not only did Vanessa, the second heifer from that dam, stand out and win grand, but her first heifer, a red, and her red daughter helped the Bollingers win the dam and daughter competition.

The third heifer calf thrown by the underdog dam just won the Pennsylvania Western Show, Ruby said.

And on Thursday, Janell Wivell was also all smiles as she took home the second youth supreme champion, all breeds in a row with the same cow, Donegal Creek Bear Kandy, a 4-year-old dry cow, about to freshen. (Due August 30.)

Yousey's selection of Kandy was similar to his choice of Vaness — the udders, though different in veination and size, were relatively identical in comformation — the high rear attatchment, strong suspensory ligament, long front udder with easy attatchment, and a level floor with well-placed teats.

The udder on the dry cow was also judged best of the show for Holsteins shown by youth, which is rare for a dry cow to win.

However, Kandy had a last lactation record of 30,000 pounds of milk, 1,400 pounds of fat at 4.6 percent, and 1,000 pounds of protein at 3.4 percent.

The show champion is also the highest ever producing cow to grace the Wivell herd, her father Joe said.

She has given two daughters so far and has been bred to Valiant for this expected calf. If it's a bull, it's already contracted to an artificial insemination business.

Joe said he feeds a TMR and top dresses with roasted soybeans and a "top dress mix."

PREVENT PIGLET CRUSHING
BSM Model 90 Farrowing Crate
Constructed from heavy gauge materials this crate is designed to reduce crushing, with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars makes for a comfortable 33" crate width when the sow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminates the sow from carelessly dropping in the piglets.
This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as she lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

South Central 4-H Youth Qualify For State

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — More than a hundred 4-H youth from Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon and York counties competed with their dairy cattle projects in the South Central District 4-H Dairy Show, held Monday at the state Farm Show Building complex in Harrisburg.

The type show is the last step on the way to the Sept. 21 state youth dairy show, also held at the Farm Show complex.

Competitions are held around the state and are based on a system in which the judge not only places the animals within their respective classes, but also awards white, red or blue ribbons. Those who receive blue ribbons are eligible for further competition.

Gary Derr, of Mount airy, Md., judged the Holstein, Guernsey and Ayrshire breeds, while Cameron Davis, of Union Bridge, Md., judged the Brown Swiss and Jersey breeds.

Showing judges were Ann Davis, of Union Bridge, Md., and Benjamin Dum Jr., of Elliotsburg.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

GRAY SUMMIT, MO.-"Where East Meets West" or "Meet Me In St. Louis" could have been the traveling song of the 200 farmers, including some husbands and wives and a child or two, who met this week at the the Purina Research Farm. Located 30 miles west of St. Louis on Route 44, the 1188 acre farm serves as the focal point of Purina's customer service and new product development research.

St. Louis is called America's crossroads in the latest issue of the National Geographic Traveler. East meets west at the city's famous 630 foot high arch, and north meets south on the Mississippi River.

And while only a few barges now travel on the river, in 1894 when the Danforth Commission Company (forerunner of Purina) was formed, horse feed for the draft horses that pulled the river barges was their first product.

At the turn of the century, in 1904, when the World's Fair was in St. Louis, every guest was welcomed with a red and white checkerboard box. By 1918 Danforth volunteered to go to France with the YWCA to serve the troops of the Third Army Division. And he came back with the word "chow." This idea proved as popular with American farmers as it was with the soldiers.

Farm customers invited on special tours to see the extensive research that goes into their products is a tradition from the past too. In 1931 the first tour of farmers came to see the new innovations of the expanding agricultural enterprises of that era and receive the hospitality of the Purina people. And while the development of leading edge technology in products and services continued through the years, the farm tours did not begin again until last year.

That's why the farmers met in St. Louis this week. While they were here, they received farm management information and new research ideas, presented with the historic hospitality reminiscent of years gone by.

In 1926 the Purina Research Farm was started when a 250 acre dairy farm was purchased. Today, extensive research in many different species focuses on long-term goals while developing a strong data base for spin-off of near term products.

In beef research, steers are housed four to a pen with radio units on their collars that open individual feed sections. Computer data on feeding and palatablility is gathered and combined with information from an on-farm weather station. The combined informaton provides research data to determine feed consumption in relation to weather conditions.

In swine, work is done with 250 sows, 10 boars and 5,000 baby pigs per year. Regulation of growth, litter size and health and nutritional needs are researched. In addition, support for decisions in feed processing, delivery and end product quality is given.

Hog production seeks to maximize lean and minimize fat.

Dairy research is one of the major enterprises on the farm. Dietary effects on the tract and the site of digestion are studied. They look for the influence of absorbed nutrition on milk component yield and the effect on the ruminal environment.

A number of the cows kept under free-stall conditions are equipped with transponders which allow computer-controlled feeding. These animals thus have a direct link with an on-farm computer which plans and monitors individual feed consumption. The ability to track each cow's consumption so precisely produces extremely accurate performance data.

In the dairy unit's milking parlor, the cows are weighed as they leave, and automatic milk metering is interfaced with the computer. Production data can be gathered, stored, and retrieved in various ways. The end result is accurate records--and ultimately a very clear indication of just how well a particular feed performs.

Calf research looks at growing management, health, preference, starter growth and hay intake levels.

The horse research barn is open with pleasant sky lighting. A quality group of quarter horses are used for feed and health care research.

Veterinary services is part of the Purina Mills value service equation. In addition, they offer services and information that creates customer value. Three veterinarians and staff handle 800 cases each year.

Consideration is given to consumer demands that include food safety and pesticide and drug residues. The high quality staff works with the customer's local veterinarian or state university to solve problems. But if a customer has a problem that need a second opinion or some other special need, the service of the research staff is free.

The product research department seeks to develop quality at lower cost. This work is not tied to a specific species or business area. Creating value is the real challenge, and what is learned in one area often has application in other areas.

One of the most unique areas of research involves rats raised for use to test various baits. A 20' x 30' pen with a foundation that extends down to bedrock houses hundreds of Norwegian rats.

At first you could see only a few of the long-tailed vermin on the soft, burrow-riddled ground. But if you see one, you have many, you know?

The rats eat 25 pounds of feed each day. No one knows how many rats are in the pen, but since a rat will consume feed at the rate of one-half ounce per day, 32 rats would eat a pound. At this rate an estimated 800 rats live in the research pen.

While the rat research facility has no counterpart anywhere, the work done here is of great service to farmers. Every rat on the farm costs the farmer $25 each year. By using infrared video equipment, the activity of rats can be viewed at night. Researchers find many rats live even in excellent livestock operations. Obviously rats need to be controlled.

"Assault" is Purina's answer to this need. The rodents eat enough at one time to eliminate them immediately. And the rodenticide has no secondary toxicity. The cost is 22 cents per dead rat, a typical example of the results of research done at the farm.

On the tour this week 90 visitors came from Pennsylvania. But other states were also represented. The list also included Maryland, New York, West Virginia, Ohio, Iowa,

with the all-glass door and repositioned mirrors, the operator gets even better visibility to the sides and rear of the tractor," said Bowerman.

Three other additions to the Maxxum tractors make it easier to use implements. Optional in-cab flow controls let the operator adjust the hydraulic flow to two sets of couplers from inside the cab. "That's especially handy for the farmer who's using spraying equipment with orbital motors," he said.

Optional electronic controls located outside the cab on both rear fenders raise and lower the hitch, making it easier to hook up implements. The offset drawbar further adds to ease of hookup.

One additional feature of the 5200 Series is the option of factory-installed Goodyear DT 710 radial tires. This new tire design provides a good combination of traction and a smoother ride. This is the first time this tire has been offered as original equipment.

"These enhancements are important," said Bowerman. "But the true value of a Maxxum tractor is found in the durable, heavy-duty powertrain. Maxxum engines and transmissions are designed and built to provide reliable, long-lasting performance under demanding, heavy-load agricultural operations."

According to Case IH production of the new 5200 Series tractors begins in September.

Other enhancements to the Magnum tractors include improved hydraulic flow-control adjustment; strengthened engine block and cylinder liners; pressure switches that provide more consistent operating range for engine oil, transmission pressure and lube pressure; and improved hydraulic couplers.

More than 160 attended the regional meeting.

Sisters Grab Show Swine Championship At Elizabethtown

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — You know the saying, "once in a blue moon."

As in, "once in a blue moon, one family can sweep a showmanship championship."

Or, "once in a blue moon, a record number of hogs will be shown at the Elizabethtown Fair."

Well, the moon may not have been blue, but some happy surprises took place at the fair late Tuesday evening, when the Becker family — Amy, Melissa, and Karen — won first place in each of the showmanship divisions at the hog show.

The event is capped by the fact that this is the eldest Becker's (Karen, 18, daughter of Marlin and Nancy Becker) last year in 4-H. Karen, the Lancaster County 4-H swine showmanship champion this year, will be showing hogs for the last time at the Manheim Farm Show in October.

Judge Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester County livestock agent, said she didn't know the winners were sisters, and was surprised. But she commented on the excellent eye contact and marveled at "the intensity of the kids. They're really into it, they really want to win."

For the record number of hogs shown (149), a first-time market hog championship went to Kevin Pfautz, for his 246-pound Class 2 heavyweight Hampshire cross gilt. Kevin, 10, son of Rick and Sue Pfautz, Lititz, attends Lititz Elementary school. A member of the Lancaster 4-H Swine Club for two years, Kevin said he "tried really hard" and had a lot of help from his family, including brother Cory, 14, who won several county champions.

Sarah Boyd showed the reserve grand champion 246-pound hog. Sarah, 11, daughter of Kerry and Deb Boyd of Ephrata, said the show was her third Elizabethtown championship. She is in the sixth grade at Clay Elementary and has been showing for three years.

In all, there were a total of 149 entries entered in the contest, including 45 exhibitors in 18 classes, which the fair claims is about 30 percent bigger than last year's show. "We think that this is the most that ever entered E-town," said Tony Folker, 4-H swine leader, and show announcer. "This show has grown, and it is truly one of the good ones in the county."

Following is a list of show placings.

Nominations Taken For Calf Sale

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Nominations for the Fifth Dutch Country Calf Sale to be held at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, October 24, at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, are now being accepted.

Deadline for nominating calves is Sept. 30.

Eligible calves must be born after Jan. 1, 1992 and include crossbred steers or purebred steers and heifers.

Several calves sold at the previous Dutch Country Calf Sales have earned championship titles at fairs, including this year's grand champion of the Mifflin County Fair and reserve grand champion steer at Kutztown Fair. Junior exhibitors who show their Dutch Country calves to champion honors are eligible to receive $50 gift certificates on a pruchase of another calf at the next calf sale.

Nomination fee for the Dutch Country Calf Sale is $15 per animal. A 7 percent commission will be charged on the sale price of each calf. Consignors of the top-grading calves will receive cash awards. Auctioneer for the sale will be Ken Leiby of Hamburg.

For more information about the Dutch Country Calf Sale, or to request a nomination form, contact Sheila Miller by calling (215)-589-5617, or writing to Dutch Country Calf Sale, c/o Sheila Miller, sale chairman, R.D. #1 Box 325, Womelsdorf, PA 19567.

Cumberland Holds 4-H Livestock Show

BETH MILLER
Franklin Co. Correspondent

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Cumberland County 4-Hers went home with awards for their scrapbooks and dollars for their pockets after the county 4-H Livestock Roundup Sale at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds.

In the market goat event, the 67-pound animal raised by William Leib of Mechanicsburg won champion honors. That animal was bought by Gordon Dey for $240.

The reserve champion goat was an 84-pound animal raised by Andrew Rook of Newville. Rook sold his goat to Dey for $120.

The total sale price for all seven goats entered in the roundup was $820, for an average of $117.14 a head.

Leib also had the champion market hog, a 220-pounder that he sold to Hoss's Steak & Sea House for $4.10 a pound.

Roger Finkenbinder of Carlisle sold his 237-pound reserve champion hog to Hatfield Quality Meats for $3 a pound.

The champion pair of hogs was raised by Michelle Comman of Carlisle. She sold those animals, which weighed 114 and 113 pounds, to Hatfield for 81 cents a pound.

All 74 hogs in competition at the roundup brought in a total of $17,419, for an average of $235 a head and $1.02 a pound.

In the steer competition, Eric Berkeimer of Mechanicsburg took champion honors with his 1,300 animal. The reserve champion was a 1,150-pound steer raised by Bobby Davidson of Shippensburg.

Berkheimer's animal was bought by Hoss's for $3.60 a pound. Western Sizzlin' Steak house purchased Davidson's steer for $1.70 a pound.

SPELTZ GROWERS WANTED AT $.10 PER LB.

Get big yields. It is coming in big demand for flour. Also white soybeans at $12.00 per bu. You can have them toxic free in one season using our Nutri-Carb fertilizer, which is also a great soil builder, lasts for years, which makes it economical fertilizer. Sow Speltz in the fall. We have seed.

We also have another very reasonable priced all organic fertilizer for less than $100 per ton depending on the blend. It is very basic for all crops, high in phos. and cal., the very items needed for better weed, disease, and bug control and more feed value, as taught by our advanced organic school. We see the results.

Apply on hay and pasture now. It doesn't dissipate and get away from you. Lasts for years. Apply where and when corn comes off for a soil builder which is the name of the game.

Lebanon Celebrates 75th Extension Anniversary

From the left, Rep. Ed Arnold presents a House proclamation to Denis Hoke, retired extension agent, in recognition of his 35 years service. Hoke retired without fanfare in June.

Swanger attended providing testimony to the continued value of the service. Also attending and speaking was U.S. Congressman George Gekas.

Several were members of the program, while all continue to be involved through their representative positions.

Alletta Schadler, extension director and home economist for 21 years, gave a recollection of the service and her involvement with it. She became teary eyed when talking about the value of volunteers.

"I used to have a hard time asking people to volunteer," Schadler said. "I always thought that it was my job to do everything, until . . ."

She paused, tilting her head back slightly, tears visible.

"Until someone thanked me for allowing them to volunteer. They said that no one had ever had that much confidence in them to allow them to volunteer. They said that no one had ever had that much confidence in them to allow them to do something for other people."

She then talked about the value of volunteers who she said are responsible for the success of the community outreach program which is the extension service.

Ed Arnold served as master of ceremonies, introducing Sen. David Brightbill. Arnold credited the senator with the legislative effort that resulted in funding assistance that made possible construction of the large fairgrounds building.

Brightbill, in taking the podium, then presented a Senate proclamation to Lloyd Early, president of the extension board of directors.

The proclamation stated the value of the extension service to the better living conditions and education of all countians.

"Since its beginning, this valuable organization has embodied cooperative effort between federal, state and county government for the benefit of the citizens of Lebanon County," Brightbill said.

"Guided by local volunteers, its professional staff has provided up-to-date information and new ways to increase the profitability of agriculture; strengthen community leadership; improve diet, nutrition and health; improve the quality of family life; develop youth through 4-H and leadership programs, and manage our soil, water and environment.

"Today its mission remains true to its origins while keeping pace with the technology of the times. The Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania heartily congratulates the Penn State Cooperative Extension in Lebanon County upon the joyous celebration of its seventy-fifth anniversary and offers best wishes for continued exemplary service in the years to come."

Arnold also presented a proclamation of appreciation to Denis Hoke, retired associate extension agent, who left without fanfare in June.

The presentation was a surprise for Hoke, who had asked that everyone downplay his retirement. He spoke briefly, thanking the people of Lebanon County for receiveing him so well and for being so cooperative in efforts to work to better the community.

Born and raised in York County, he said he was glad he never had to relocate, because the people and the agricultural interests are much alike and "I always felt at home here."

Other retired agents, include Newton Bair, who compiled a history of the extension service in Lebanon and presented it, and home economist Agnes Moot, took the podium and talked about the value of the program.

Visitors From Nine States Tour Purina Research Farm

The milking herd has a rolling herd average of nearly 22,000 pounds of milk, even though every cow is used in various research projects. The tour group visits the free-stall area.

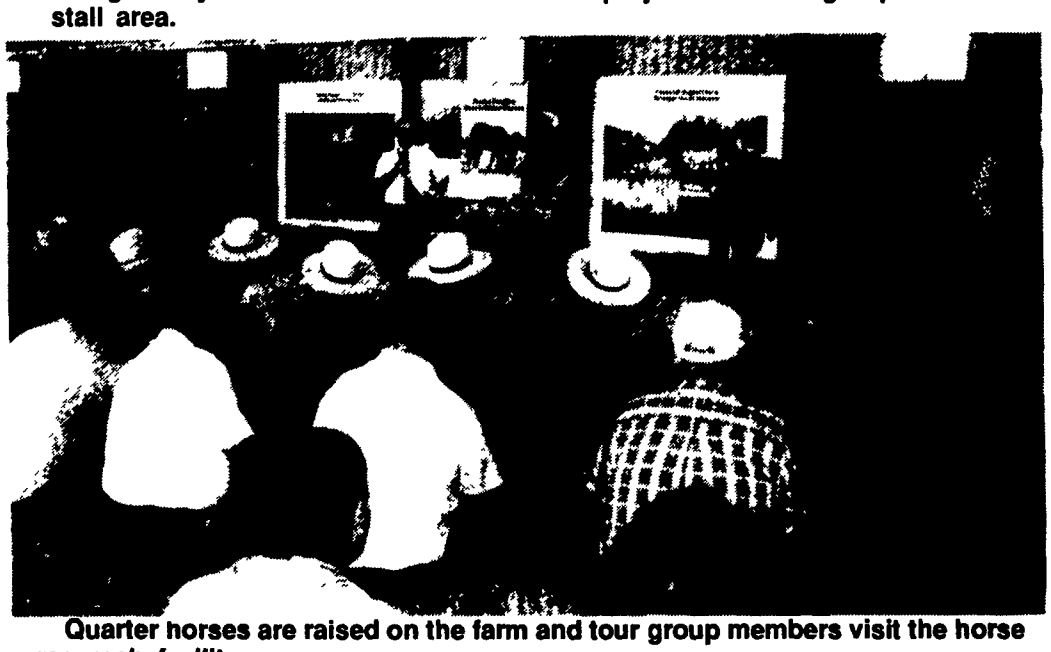
Nebraska, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

Purina calls their new series of farm tours VIP 2000. The VIP stands for Value In Purina.

According to comments from the group, the seminars on metabolism, body condition scoring and reproduction was especially useful and worth the trip. But the comradery among farmers was also evident. Even though their farms were miles apart and they didn't know each other when they arrived, many new friendships were made before they headed home on Wednesday afternoon.

The best summary of the hospitality and good-will created by the people at Purina for the farmers on the tour came from the group of Amish farmers from Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. "Mir hen all un gute zeit kat un blendy ket fa essa," they said. "We all had a good time and had plenty to eat."



Quarter horses are raised on the farm and tour group members visit the horse research facility.

Allen: New State Holstein Sales Representative

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — William J. Allen, Jefferson, Maryland, is the new Director of Sales for the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. Allen will assume his duties September 1st according to the announcement today by William C. Nichol, Pennsylvania Holstein Association, Executive Director.

Allen is a 1987 University of Maryland graduate with a degree in Agriculture Economics where he was president of his fraternity, and a member of the University of Maryland collegiate dairy judging team, placing 13th in the national contest his senior year.

From his office at PHA Farm, Middletown, Allen will be responsible for the entire farm operation, all aspects of providing a domestic sales service including maintaining an inventory and promotion of Pennsylvania Holsteins nationwide. He will also assist with the international sales program as well as the Association's valuable consignment sales activity.

Bill has had experience as a Sales Representative for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative and as a Field Representative for Penn West Farm Credit. More recently he has been associated with the Allen Family dairy farm operation of Glen-Toctin Farm which consists of 225 head of Holsteins and 400 acres of cropland near Jefferson, Maryland.

Please join us in welcoming Bill to his new and challenging position of providing merchandising service for the Asosociation's 5000 + members.

Bush Names Local Farmer

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — President George Bush has appointed a Pennsylvania ag leader to a major post in the Bush/Quayle election campaign, it was announced here during Ag Progress Days by USDA's Under Secretary for Rural Development Roland Vartour.

Speaking at the Pennsylvania Ag Republican Barbecue, Vartour reported that Dennis Grumbine, Lebanon County, will be the Pennsylvania ag chairman for the Bush/Quayle ticket. Grumbine also will be a member of the national steering committee.

A hog farmer and farm equipment dealer, Grumbine has served on the State Farm Show Commission and is a former chairman of the Pennsylvania Ag Republicans. In 1988, Grumbine was state ag chairman of William Scranton, Jr's gubernatorial campaign.

Embargo depression

In his prepared talk, Under Secretary Vartour told Ag Republicans that President Carter's 1980 grain embargo was the biggest financial disaster faced by U.S. farmers in this century. He noted that Carter had urged farmers to plow fence row to fence row, and encouraged them to spend big dollars to tool up production capacity.

Then Carter imposed the grain embargo, the Under Secretary pointed out. The huge Russian market was lost to other countries. "And we've been digging out ever since," he asserted.

The USDA official was upbeat about rural America.

"Off farm income has never been better," he said. A whopping $44.2 billion in 1991, 19% more than 1989.

Vartour also disclosed that USDA spends $11 billion a year for such rural projects as water systems and solid waste disposal. But he warns that it's really up to farmers and other local residents to reenergize rural America.

"You can expect some help from us," he said, but emphasized that it's the local input that make projects go.

Also in the works are State Rural Development Councils sponsored by USDA to sort out the needs and adapt ideas to local conditions. Councils have already proved a huge success in eight states, Vartour said. Others are planned for 1993.

Republicans gaining

The recent reapportionment of the State Assembly was kind to House Republicans, it was reported by State Representative John Barley, Lancaster County. In 1990, he said, only 82 districts in the Pennsylvania House had more Republicans registered than Democrats. This fall, thanks to reappointment, 101 districts have a Republican edge. And another three or four districts are "toss ups", he added.

Barley emphasized that Republicans must take 102 seats to win control of the House. Republicans currently have 94 seats and Democrats, 107. There are two vacancies.

Lehigh Dairy Of Distinction Truly 'Representative'

Herdsman Jerry Fleck feeds the heifers at this facility, built in the winter of 1990, at Excelsior Farm.

barn to pipeline. Averages, on DHIR, are 24,500 lbs., 808f, and 767p.

Handful of dairies

While milk prices improve for many of the area dairies, the prospect of buying any additional farmland is grim for dairies such as Excelsior. In fact, Excelsior is one of the handful of dairies left in the area. Many farms view the Excelsior as a barometer of what impact urban encroachment may have on farming elsewhere.

Development "hasn't really showed any real let-up," said Paul Semmel. "It's slowed down a little bit in the last two years, but it's continuing."

Joggers make their way past the farm, and some stop in to meet the Semmels.

The Semmels are concerned about many of the antifarming feelings those that move into the area confess to having. Especially when it becomes time to clean out the manure pits, said Nancy.

Keep the farmland

"You hear that, too," she said. "They want to keep the farmland. We want to keep the farmland, keep the farmland, but then, when it's time to clean the manure pits out twice a year, they don't like the smell."

The Semmels, who maintain the dairy and represent the district (covering the northern Lehigh and northern Berks County regions), are well-regarded by the community.

"We have a lot of joggers," said Nancy Semmel. "This man was jogging and stopped by to pet the back of Greta (the family's basset hound), and he asked me, is this where Paul Semmel lives? And I said yeah. He said, my representative? And I said yes. And I said, who are you? And he said, I live here and originally came from New Jersey, and I work in Allentown." She said her husband came over to see what they were talking about, and, according to Nancy, the jogger said, "That's what I like to look at — my representative working."

The Semmels spoke about how hard it was for them in starting a family and taking over the family farm operation, which was owned by Paul's parents (the Heintzelman Farm). The third-generation farm has been a registered Holstein farm since the late 1920s. Paul Semmel's family took over the farm in 1961, at the time Paul was graduated from Penn State with a degree in ag education.

House representative

At first, Paul began teaching as a substitute at the local schools, and moved on to various full-time positions while farming full-time. For years, he worked as a vocational ag, metal shop, and science teacher, until 1982. Paul quit teaching and took over the responsibilities as a House representative, commuting weekly to Harrisburg and turning over the farm operation to full-time herd manager Jerry Fleck.

Nancy said that Paul "still milks cows on Monday morning before he goes to Harrisburg."

With all the work, according to Nancy, the family couldn't take a vacation until 1979, when she and Paul went to the Holstein Convention in Colorado. "That was the longest time we were away. We took the whole family to the airport. I had all the relatives saying, 'They're going! Goodbye! Oh, my!'"

Nancy said that it was hard for the family in the 1960s, when they started out. "I mean, raising the kids, and he's going to teach, and we're trying to farm, but it was hard. The things that you did when you were younger, how did I do all that work? Then we would go to meetings yet."

Called dedication

Nancy said she can't understand how young people complain about the hard work. "Today the young people say, well, I have so much at home to do. We'd say, we did the same thing. It's called dedication."

Paul Semmel said his district is changing with reapportionment.

"I had more farms, particularly dairy farms, in the Hamburg area of northern Berks, which I'll be losing, and moving farther south in Berks County. It's really becoming much more of a very suburbanized rural area."

But farming is still a top concern for Paul. The Semmels have made changes to their herd, including improving the type and milk production numbers through embryo transfer methods with the help of a local veterinarian. Through the 1980s, the farm "made some purchases to fill some spaces," said Paul. "Of course, when you do that you sort of sacrifice type, sometimes, and even production."

Herd profitability

Gradual improvements over the years helped gear the farm in the direction of herd profitability, and the farm continues to seek new ways to improve production and type. The Semmel family has shown at the local and state shows for many years. Shannon, 16, showed at this year's Kutztown Fair and plans to take several prize animals to the Allentown Fair in September.

For now, the Semmels want to continue to upgrade the image of the farm as a Dairy of Distinction.

"Quite often, when one travels along the highway, you do see some very nice farmsteads," said Paul. "You see some that are atrocious — and those are some the animal rights people relate to and thrive on, unfortunately."

Paul said the Dairy of Distinction program "helps people who maybe are not up on a main highway to be recognized for the keeping of their farmstead and their home and grounds. Admittedly, maybe not every shingle or every windowpane might be in place at times, but maintenance is ongoing."

"Certainly the program is exuding a positive influence," said Nancy, "so the dairy producers are putting out a positive message. It's a program to mute some of the criticisms and go from there."

prize-winning sheep from a Virginia breeder. It will be used as a breeding sheep for the Tracy family, which raises about 50 head of Suffolks and Southdowns. Ryan's brother Mark had, in previous years, showed two sheep that were named supreme sheep at the Elizabethtown Fair.

Each animal competing for the supreme champion animal title needed first to capture the supreme title in its species class. Each supreme animal is then compared with the ideal animal of its particular species and not against each other to receive the supreme champion animal title.

Judge Sue Brown, a dairy specialist at White Oak Mills, said that Wivell's Holstein was an excellent example of its breed. It has tremendous build and strong foot and leg formation for a cow that is about to calf, she said.

Marlin Becker, who works in hog procurement for White Oak Mills, said that the Duroc-Hampshire hog won over 132 other hogs because of its width from front to back.

Kelley Shearer, a Penn State graduate and member of the livestock judging team, said, "The steer is producer and packer oriented with incredible muscle structure that will perform well on the feed lot and I think have lots of red meat on the carcass."

DVC Cow Wins Southeastern Pa. Holstein Show

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Russ Subject, the herdsman for Delaware Valley College (DVC), Doylestown, knows how to pick winners.

A 3-year-old Holstein that Subject recently acquired for the college, Sharpson Mark Adam Luanna, was the grandest Holstein in all last week at the Southeastern Pennsylvania Holstein Show.

"She has tremendous height and width in her udder attachment," said judge Paul Knight, a dairy farmer from Airville. Strong legs, strong frame, openness, dairyness, balance, and style were some of the other attributes of this and other show champions.

Knight noted that there was a lot of quality throughout the show.

This year, there were about 20 more entries to the show, said Ken Rainey of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, who helped run the show. Warren E. Buckman III of Perkasie was the show chairman.

Penn Gate Beautician Clara, a 4-year-old owned by Penn Gate Farms of Littlestown, was the reserve grand champion. She was also named best bred and owned of the show. These two cows also were the senior champion and reserve senior champion of the open show.

In the youth division, a 6-year-old cow, Daview Pete Ginger, owned by Jeffrey T. Davis of Kutztown, was the grand champion and senior champion. She also took other top honors, including best bred-and-owned in the youth division and produce of dam.

Sonnen Acres Starbuck Dulci, a 4-year-old cow owned by Peter Sonnen, was the reserve grand champion and the reserve senior champion in the youth division. At last year's show, Dulci won these same honors.

Penwood Farms of Morgantown was named premiere breeder and exhibitor of the show.

The top senior best three females went to Penn Gate, with Keystone Farm of Easton, second, and Pennwood Farms, third.

The top dam and daughter went to Daview Pete Ginger and Daview Mark Gina, owned by Jeffrey Davis.

Pennwood Marvation Cindy and Pennwood Impact Carman, owned by Pennwood Farms, were the second best dam and daughter.

In the heifer show, champion of the youth division was Bryan Hostetter of Lebanon, with his winter heifer calf Dale Pride Arthur's Precise. The reserve champion of the youth division was Reu-Hel Inspiration Rocket, a summer yearling owned by Trisha L. Geist.

The champion heifer was Fantasyland Lincoln Brandy, a winter calf, owned by David and Rhonda Poole of Bernville. The reserve champion was Pintail Point I Victoria, a spring yearling, owned by Delaware Valley College.

Penn Gate also had the best three females with Delaware Valley College second and Fantasyland Holsteins third.

Following is a list of show placings.

York Countians Depend On The Farmer's Daughter

Left-over Beans Grow A Quarter-Century Business

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

SHREWSBURY (York Co.) — Customers visiting The Farmer's Daughter might find it hard to believe that the garden and craft center all began with a little girl and a few baskets of green beans.

Longtime neighbors of market proprietor Megan Shaub remember the seven-year-old, dark-haired lass who pulled a red wagon up the street on the west side of the town of Shrewsbury, laden with a supply of fresh beans.

"It was something to do," remembers Megan, "even though it only lasted a couple of weeks. They sold for 25-cents for a quart strawberry-box full, since that kept it easy for me to make change."

The beans she sold to neighbors and passing motorists were gleaned from corners of her dad's string bean fields, small sections missed by harvesting equipment from the contracting vegetable packing company. And, sometimes she salvaged portions of the freshly-picked crop that were spilled as the bean harvesters dumped them into waiting trucks.

Megan Shaub, sitting on a lawn chair at the edge of the bean field, waving a small American flag as they passed by, became a familiar sight to local drivers during the brief bean-harvest season that summer of 1967.

This summer, the Farmer's Daughter is celebrating a quarter-century in business at the family farm, located west of Strewsbury on Route 851. And the red wagon and lawn chair have been replaced with a large building chocked full of garden and craft supplies, an impressive assortment of annuals, perennials and nursery plants, and seasonal festivities that include sprawling pumpkin displays and Christmas craft classes.

By 1970, Megan's 4-H vegetable garden yields had outgrown the wagon. Bob Shaub replaced it with old chicken brooder house, remodeled into a roofed, open-front display area with shelves for Megan's produce and his antique bottle collection.

As business grew over the ensuing years, the Shaubs began devoting more of their crop farm's acreage around the stand to vegetables and seasonal produce requested by increasing numbers of customers. Sweet corn, cantaloupes and pumpkins were seasonal staples among the array of vegetables Megan grew and sold, supplemented with earlier produce, such as melons, purchased for resale through the wholesale fresh markets.

Although much of her earnings went back into the business, Megan used some of her profits to purchase a horse trailer. Even that went to work for The Farmer's Daughter market — her dad hitched it to the pickup to haul cantaloupes and watermelons north from the Maryland wholesale market.

Following her completion of an associate horticulture degree at Penn State's Mount Alto campus in 1981, Megan was committed to a full-time career of retail producer-garden marketing. And the little girl's business had grown as quickly as the little girl.

"After I got out of college, we were selling 50 acres of vegetables from an eight-foot stand," relates Megan. "It was either get bigger or do something else. There was no room for extra supplies of things to replace what we sold."

The Farmer's Daughter opened for business in the spring of 1982 with a 42-by-64-foot building to handle the produce business and expansion into bedding plants and garden supplies.

But as the plant and garden supply business mushroomed over the next few years, the produce side dwindled. In 1987 the Shaub's opted to skip growing vegetables.

"The labor was getting too intensive, surplus was difficult to market, and the volume that people purchased changed," are among the reasons Megan cites for exiting the produce side of the market. "With more women working, many no longer buy and can large volumes at a time; instead they come in several times a week to get smaller amounts for fresh use."

"There were several too wet and too dry years that affected costs, while our retail prices didn't really change. String beans don't cost that much more than they did 25 years ago compared to the inputs. We looked at the beginning and the end - and there wasn't much at the end with produce."

"We've had to adapt to the changing society," she acknow-

Giant hibiscus blooms at The Farmer's Daughter catch plenty of customer attention and the admiration of market proprietor Megan Shaub and her parents Robert and Margaret.

Megan Shaub describes to customers the blooming and care of one of the extensive varieties of perennials available at The Farmer's Daughter market.

Grapevine reindeer pulling Santa on a vintage sleigh promoted the Farmer's Daughter's holiday craft house scheduled to open in October. The Shaubs displayed the float in area parades this summer.

Connie McKay teaches a variety of craft classes utilizing the market's creative resource materials.

ledges. "Within a few years we branched out into country market items, adding things like dried flowers and baskets. And then a few years later, customers were asking for craft items, and we expanded into those."

Crafts are now about half the business, according to Megan and keep the Farmer's Daughter busy during the off-gardening season, September through March.

Local crafters especially rekindle their creative interest when schools reopen after summer vacations. To coincide with that seasonal swing, craft classes teach the use of the broad array of items stocked by The Farmer's Daughter. Wreaths, dried flower arranging, paper twist, wood and T-shirt painting are among the classes taught by craft instructor Connie McKay.

As the business has grown and developed, management claims increasing amounts of Megan's time. She carries pad and pencil to jot down ideas or items that need attention as she supervises employees and tends to be regular and seasonal management needs of the garden center.

"Dad does the books, pays the bills, and handles our deliveries," says Megan of her father, who laughingly claims to be retired. Mother Margaret assists with children's craft classes, special seasonal events and lends a hand in any way needed.

Being relatively young and a woman has not been a barrier in any way in the garden center business, according to Megan. Her years of growing plants and produce, combined with her horticulture training, enable her to answer most customer questions. If she doesn't have a ready answer, Megan will quickly turn to reference materials to help solve customers questions.

Robert's years as a crop farmer have similarly made him familiar with insect problems and given him a background in plant nutrient and chemical needs. And the two frequently attend area and regional related educational seminars and events.

"We go to a lot of meetings," Megan affirms of their ongoing efforts to stay abreast of new gardening promotions, techniques and technology. "Dad and I split up, pick and choose which are most appropriate, to take in as many educational activities as we can."

As the gardening season winds down and the crafts pace picks up, the Farmer's Daughter is moving into yet another new endeavor. The Shaubs are making the final preparations to open the Shrewsbury-area's first craft house.

"Homestead Country Christmas" is set in a restored country home adjacent to the Farmer's Daughter. The craft house will showcase both the market's creative design materials and selected consignments by talented local craftspersons. Scheduled to be open daily October 1 through November 22, Homestead Country Christmas will offer an array of traditional and holiday gift items and collectibles.

The Farmer's Daughter and Homestead Country Christmas are located on Route 851, west of Shrewsbury from Interstate 83 Exit 1. Information on the Farmer's Daughter or the upcoming opening of Homestead Country Christmas is available at (717) 235-3309.

Harvest season turns the Farmer's Daughter into a sort of pumpkin mall.

Ask The Master Food Preserver

My dill didn't grow well this year. Is it all right to use dill seed?

Yes, many recipes now offer quantities of seed as a substitute for the preferred fresh dill heads.

I blanched and froze my green beans but they are shrivelled and the flavor isn't there. What went wrong?

Chances are whatever you used to freeze them in did not give you a proper seal and allowed moisture and oxygen to penetrate. There are many plastics that are not moisture/vapor proof. It's important to use a high quality freezer product. Another possibility is your product was not frozen under 10 degrees or was stored in a self-defrosting freezer that allows some minor defrosting and refreezing.

You mention following proper processing times in canning. How do I know what is current and what is recommended?

If your canning book or cookbook is more than 3 years old, don't use it. It is out of date. You can buy a canning book in the store from one of the two major canning companies since we know they follow approved recommended procedures, or you can send your name, address, and list of foods you can, and we will see that you get a set of Let's Preserve Fact sheets sent to you. Our address is Penn State Cooperative Extension, P.O. Box 390, Ebensburg, PA 15931. Send us $1 to cover the cost of the postage.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

This is the tale of two streams.

Both rise up from the rolling, productive farmlands of our beautiful York County. Both are sourced from small springs and green meadows and ultimately find their end into the majestic Susquehanna River. On the first day of trout season, parts of both stream systems host trout fishermen.

And on two recent Sunday afternoons, our family enjoyed the privilege and pleasure of canoeing/kayaking these two key York County waterways. Well, at least one was a pleasure.

Muddy Creek slices through the hills and plateaus of southeastern York County, meandering through rural villages like High Rock, Bridgeton, and Woodbine. Its network of tributaries drains thousands of acres of corn, small grains and hay on dairy, livestock and crop farms.

Muddy Creek may at times fulfill its mundane name. But the couple of times we've canoed its flow, we have never failed to be impressed with its awesome, mountain-like grandeur.

Muddy's clear waters gurgle over shallow stretches interspersed with patches of noisy whitewater. In these quieter, slower areas, birdsongs resound through the thick tangles of laurel and rhododendron and stands of old trees on steep hillsides. Over the eons, giant boulders have tumbled into the stream creating rapids and chutes that keep boaters returning for more.

Then there's the Codorus Creek system, three major branches, which drain our southcentral part of the county. The East Branch bubbles up from our farming neighborhood and Spring Valley county park, is a noted haven for trout fishermen and feeds a private trout hatchery.

South Branch also drains agriculture land is an interesting little stream for dabbling around in with the boats, if you don't mind an occasional portage around a fallen tree or doing the canoe limbo under a pasture fence. These two small, picturesque streams join upstream from York city's water pumping station.

Downstream from there, the face of the Codorus changes dramatically with the additional of the West Branch. Paper mill manufacturing discharge, though treated for stream reentry, still leaves the water darkly discolored. Where it joins the flow of the other two combined branches, its brownish-black waters seem to flow separate for some distance, until a small dam blends the two flows.

Discoloration seems to worsen and the waters gather trash as the Codorus passes through the city, the outer manufacturing areas and sewage treatment facilities. No trout are stocked in this part of the Codorus.

To access the Susquehanne recently with our boats, we put-in the Codorus a short distance before it enters the river. Here the creek's water flows a sickly, sometimes sudsy, deep-chocolate shade. On that afternoon, the river was high, washing out small ledges and inundating low-flying island edges, but exceptionally clear. You could see the bottom, even in several feet of water.

But the clear water changed to dark at the Codorus' mouth; rocks there are stained a permanent dark hue.

Agriculture has taken a big rap in recent years over stream pollution. Yes, there no doubt have been, are and will continue to be some nutrient pollution. Farmer — and taxpayer money — is being spent by the millions toward controlling ag runoff.

But what about manufacturing and sewage system discharge? What about millions of underground septic systems, old landfills and dumps, more paved parking lots, more houses, more malls, more tearing up of trees and land supporting plant life?

Of these two stream systems we personally know, the clean, the clear, the aesthetically beautiful, the areas sought by trout fishermen . . . flow through land that has been in agriculture for decades.

Could it be farming is taking more of a rap than it deserves?

Rabbit Breeders Choose King And Queen

CHESTER (Chester Co.) — The Pennsylvania Rabbit Breeders Association recently announced the selection of two outstanding young people as winners of the 1992 royalty contest. Chosen as Queen was 17-year-old Melissa Edwards of West Grove, Chester County. She is the daughter of Robert and Susan Edwards. A senior at Bishop Shanahan High School, she currently is ranked number one in the class. Besides being a member of The National Honor Society, she is an editor of the school newspaper, a member of the math team, a member of Community Service Corps and involved in an environmental awareness club. Melissa belongs to four 4-H clubs and serves as president of the Oxford Rabbit Club and 4-H County Council. Her 4-H projects includes 21 rabbits, 2 Ayrshire heifers, 15 chickens and a sewing project. She raises prize winning Netherland Dwarf and Holland Lop bunnies. She enjoys attending shows and learning more about rabbits. Her future plans include college with a major in biology.

The 1992 Rabbit King hails from Perryville, Clarion County. Eric Stewart is a 17-year-old senior at Allegheny-Clarion Valley High School. He is the son of Tim and Pam Stewart. A member of The National Honor Society, he is active in many school activities, sports and choir. This year he was a soloist and he has participated in district and regional choir for the past two years. Eric's 4-H achievements include being a Penn State 4-H Ambassador and representing the United States as one of six delegates to the Canadian National 4-H Congress. In 1991 he was the hi-point individual at Penn State 4-H Days' Rabbit Skillathon. He has raised many breeds of rabbits and currently is raising Holland Lops and English Spots with which he has won top awards at national shows. He plans to attend college to major in animal or vet science.

WHAT'S SHAKIN?

Sodium is a mineral found in almost every food. Often when we think of sodium, we think of salt. Salt is made of sodium and chloride. Everyone needs sodium in order for their muscles to contract, their nerve impulses to work and for their body to have proper fluid balance. Sodium is a necessary nutrient, but we usually eat more than we need.

Although sodium is essential to our health, we need very little. A "safe and adequate" amount of sodium intake per day is about 3,300 milligrams (about 1 and 1/2 level teaspoons for adults. However, most Americans consume about 6000 miligrams of sodium or 3 teaspoons of salt each day.

Wonder what he body does with the excess sodium you consume? The kidneys regulate blood sodium levels by keeping sodium that is needed and removing an excess. Did you ever notice how thirsty you become after you eat salty foods? The excess sodium in your blood triggers the thirst center in your brain, which tells you that you are thristy. Drinking liquids helps the body to get rid of the excess sodium.

Eating too much sodium can raise blood pressure in some sodium-sensitive individuals. Have your blood pressure checked regularly. At this time, there is no way to tell who might develop high blood pressure. So everyone should use salt and sodium in moderation even if their blood pressure is normal.

What can you do to eat less salt and sodium? Don't use salt when you cook and serve food. Cook with spices, herbs, lemon juice or wine vinegar. Use the nutrition information on food labels to compare the sodium content in different products, such as in soups and frozen dinners.

Many manufacturers are introducing foods with less sodium Look for lower-sodium versions of the following products where you shop: Canned vegetables, juices and sauces; canned soups, dried soup mixes and bouillon, snack foods (chips, nuts and pretzels), ready-to-eat cereals, cheeses,tuna and processed meats.

Nutrition information of food labels can help you know how much sodium is in a food. The information lists the milligrams of sodium in one serving of the food. Remember, if you eat 2 servings of a food, you will double your sodium intake!

Salt substitutes may be helpful for some people who want to reduce their sodium intake. Many salt substitutes contain potassium in place of all or part of the sodium People under medical care, particularly for kidney or heart problems,should check with their physician before using salt substitutes that contain potassium Some popular salt substitutes that do not contain potassium are Mrs. Dash, Papa Dash, Veg-it, and Americna Heart Association herb blends. These products should be avaiable in the spice section of your favorite supermarket.

Attend Honey Harvest Festival

The Hashawha Environmental Center, in cooperation with the Carroll County Beekeepers Association is sponsoring the sixth annual Honey Harvest Festival on September 20, from 12 noon to 5 p.m. This festival, which is free of charge features many exciting events, including hayrides for the kids, a chance to visit a real apiary, food concession, a beekeeper wearing a "bee beard," viewing an observation hive to see the bees working and perhaps glimpse the queen bee, and much much more!

The featured speaker for the festival is University of Maryland Professor Dr. Dewey Caron who will present a fascinating program on "Killer Bees." "Mountain Man Kirk" will again lead hearty and brave souls on a search for a bee tree in the woods. Bring coon skin hats and hearty appetites. New for this year - a visit from the National Honey Princess. For more information, call Hashawha at (410) 848-9040, or visit the center at 300 John Owings Road, Westminster, Maryland.

End-Of-Summer Sizzles With Labor Day Cookout

For one last blast of summer fun, hold a cookout on Labor Day.

Family members and friends won't be able to resist the aroma of your favorite meat sizzling on the grill.

Be daring. Grill your favorite vegetables and even the bread. Try an unusual salad using summer's bounty of vegetables. Top it off with fresh summer fruit salad or homemade ice cream. A Labor Day cookout is the perfect way to end the summer.

GRILLED STEAKS WITH BASIL-GARLIC BREAD AND GRILLED TOMATOES

1¼ pounds boneless beef top loin steaks, cut 1-inch thick
Basil-Garlic Oil*
Salt and pepper, if desired
1 small loaf French bread
6 tomato slices, cut ¾ -inch thick
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Prepare Basil-Garlic Oil*; reserve. Place beef top loin steaks on grid over medium coals, turning once. Grill steaks about 15 minutes for rare; 20 minutes for medium. Season with salt and pepper, if desired. Cut bread in half lengthwise; brush 1½ tablespoons basil mixture evenly on cut side on each bread half. Brush an equal amount of remaining basil mixture on one side of each tomato slice. Five minutes before steaks are done, place bread, cut-side down, and tomatoes on grid with steaks; grill 2 to 3 minutes. Turn bread and tomatoes over; sprinkle evenly with Parmesan cheese. Continue grilling 1 to 3 minutes or until bread is golden brown and tomatoes are just heated through. Cut each bread half diagonally into 6 slices. Serve steaks with bread and tomato. 6 servings.

*Basil-Garlic Oil: Combine 3 tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon chopped fresh basil or 1 teaspoon dried basil leaves and ½ teaspoon garlic powder. Yield: Approximately ¼ cup.

FROZEN CHEESE SALAD

3-ounces cream cheese
1 cup grated mild Cheddar cheese
6 green minted cherries
6 maraschino cherries
1 cup heavy whipping cream
1 cup mayonnaise

Combine cream cheese and cheddar cheese. Finely chop cherries and add. Add mayonnaise to cheese mixture and blend well. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Freeze. Serves 6.

GRILLED CHICKEN IN OLIVE OIL-CHIVES VINAIGRETTE

4 broiler-fryer chicken breast quarters
6 tablespoons olive oil, divided
4 tablespoons wine vinegar, divided
1 teaspoon salt, divided
½ teaspoon pepper, divided
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 clove garlic
Peel of 1 lemon
1 tablespoon chopped chives

Blend 1 tablespoon of olive oil, 1 tablespoon wine vinegar, ¼ teaspoon each salt, pepper, and mustard; process 15 seconds. While processor is still running, add 2 more tablespoons olive oil and process 10 seconds. Add remaining 3 tablespoons wine vinegar, remaining olive oil, garlic, and lemon peel. Add chives and process about 15 seconds more. Dip each piece of chicken in sauce and coat well. Marinate in refrigerator at least 4 hours or overnight. Place chicken on prepared grill, skin side up, about 8-inches from heat. Sprinkle with remaining ¾ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Grill, turning and basting with sauce every 10 minutes, about 1 hour or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 4 servings.

CHICKEN MONTEREY

4 skinless, boneless chicken breasts, cut in half
8-ounce bottle Catalina salad dressing

Pour dressing over chicken breasts and marinate overnight. Place chicken on hot grids, and grill about 5 minutes on each side or until desired tenderness. Baste with additional salad dressing while grilling.

CHEESE-BEAN COMBO

2 16-ounce cans pork and beans in tomato sauce
15-ounce kidney beans, rinsed and drained
1 cup shredded Colby cheese
½ cup sliced onion
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tomato, cut in wedges

Combine all ingredients except tomatoes in a heavy 1½ -quart casserole. Top with tomatoes. Cover and place on grill; heat to serving temperature, about 30 minutes. Or bake in a preheated 350 degree oven, uncovered, about 20 minutes, or until heated throughout. Serve immediately.

Cut boneless beef top sirloin steak in 1¼ -inch pieces and grill with bell peppers, and large mushrooms seasoned with lemon, mustard, honey, and oregano.

CHUTNEY-GLAZED CURRY BEEF KABOBS

1¼ to 1½ pounds boneless beef sirloin steak, cut 1-inch thick
1½ teaspoons curry powder
½ teaspoon each ground cumin and salt
⅛ teaspoon ground red pepper
1 large Spanish onion, quartered
⅓ cup Major Grey-style chutney, chopped
2 tablespoons water
2 teaspoons country-style Dijon mustard
2 cups hot cooked rice
1 medium tomato, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint

Cut beef sirloin steak into 16 to 18 1-inch cubes. Soak four, 12-inch bamboo skewers in water 10 minutes. Combine curry powder, cumin, salt, and red pepper; coat beef cubes evenly with seasoning mixture. Cut each onion quarter into 4 pieces. Alternately thread 4 to 5 beef cubes and 4 onion pieces on each skewer. Place kabobs on grid over medium coals. Broil kabobs 12 to 15 minutes, depending upon desired doneness. Meanwhile combine chutney, water and mustard; mix well. Turn and brush kabobs with chutney mixture during last 6 to 8 minutes of cooking time. Meanwhile combine rice, tomato, and mint. Serve kabobs on rice mixture. Serves 4.

BARBECUED PORK SPARERIBS

1 rack pork spareribs, approximately 3 pounds
Marinade:
½ cup soy sauce
¾ cup honey
1 small can pureed apricots
2 heaping teaspoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon ginger

Combine marinade ingredients and heat until well blended. Cool.

Marinate ribs for about 2 hours in the marinade. Cook ribs over slow coals. Baste frequently with marinade.

CHERRY-PINEAPPLE ICE CREAM

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
4 pasteurized processed eggs
Pinch salt
1 tablespoon vanilla
2 cans sweetened condensed milk
1½ to 2 quarts milk
16-ounces maraschino cherries, chopped
20-ounces crushed pineapple

Mix first seven ingredients with eggs; add fruit and place in ice cream freezer. Churn until hardened. Makes 8 quarts.

Jonestown

CHICKEN CHEESE BALL

8-ounces cream cheese
2 to 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
6 ounce can chicken
1½ tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Garlic salt to taste
Chopped nuts, if desired

Beat cream cheese and mayonnaise together. Add chicken with broth and garlic salt. Beat until fluffy. Add onion and parsley and mix well. Refrigerate overnight. Roll in chopped nuts or parsely if desired. Serve with assorted crackers.

Homemade ice cream offers rich flavor, a distinctive creamy texture, and endless variety that cannot be found in any store.

Whether you're a veteran at the churn or you're making ice cream for the first time, "Ice Cream Basics," a new leaflet offered by the American Dairy Association, is your pocket guide to delicious success.

It includes all you need to know for making scrumptious homemade ice creams and refreshing sherbets. It's complete with how-to's, helpful hints, and several mouth-watering recipes. To order, send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to Ice Cream Basics, Dairy & Nutrition Council Mid East, 3592 Corporate Drive, Suite 114, Columbus, OH 43231.

Here's a recipe from the brochure.

CHOCOLATE ALMOND CHERRY ICE CREAM

2½ cups milk
1¼ cups sugar
3 eggs, beaten
2 squares semi-sweet chocolate
1 square unsweetened chcolate
1½ cups whipping cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ teaspoon almond extract
¾ cup chopped maraschino cherries
½ cup toasted sliced almonds

Combine milk, sugar, and eggs in a large saucepan. Add chocolate squares. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and coats spoon, about 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir ice cream and extracts. Chill. Stir in cherries and almonds. Freeze in ice cream maker according to manufacturer's directions. Place ice cream in freezer at least 2 hours before serving.

"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark

It seems the microwave was made for melting cheese. Natural cheese reacts to microwaving much as it does to conventional cooking but faster. Because of its high fat content, it melts quickly and tends to become stringy when overcooked. Where cheese must be cooked for more than a few moments, layer it between other ingredients and use MEDIUM POWER, or use process cheese, which is less apt to become stringy. Many cheese dishes make good appetizers. Try our selection of cheese fondues the next time you entertain.

Melted Cheese Sandwich

2 slices bread
Butter
2 slices processed cheese

In a conventional toaster, toast the bread. At the same time, preheat empty and uncovered Brown n' Sear dish at medium high for 3 minutes.

When toasted, assemble sandwich and butter outside surfaces. Place in Brown and Sear Dish. Microwave at medium high 1/2 minute per side. Makes 1 sandwich.

Tips For Microwaving Cheese

Cubed process cheese combines with cooked macaroni and evaporated milk for a quick and easy casserole. To use natural cheese, fold cooked macaroni into homemade cheese sauce.

To add cheese toppings to vegetables, casseroles and hamburgers after cooking, just add to the top. The heat from the food melts the cheese. Shredded cheese on pizza and nachos is microwaved with only a few seconds of microwave power.

Cheese Rarebit

Rarebit is a rich cheese sauce traditionally served over toast points or other types of toasted bread.

8 oz. pasteurized processed cheese, diced
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash cayenne pepper
¼ cup dairy half and half
1 egg yolk, beaten

In 1 quart casserole place cheese and butter. Microwave at High 2 to 3 minutes, stirring every minute, until melted and cheese can be stirred smooth.

Add salt, mustard, worcestershire sauce and cayenne pepper. Quickly stir in half and half and egg yolk. Microwave at medium 5 to 7 minutes, stirring every minute until hot. Makes 4 servings.

Cheese Enchiladas

1 lb. Ricotta cheese or 2 cups
1 egg
1 chopped green onions
2 tablespoons chopped green chilies
1 teaspoon cumin
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Monterey Jack cheese
8 fresh corn or flour tortillas
1 can (10 oz.) enchilada sauce
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
Sour cream and chopped green onions

In mixing bowl, stir together ricotta, egg, onions, chilies, cumin and Jack cheese.

Wrap tortillas in towel. Microwave at high 1/2 to 3/4 minute, until pliable. Divide filling among tortillas. Roll up each one tightly.

In lightly greased 12x8x2 inch dish place rolls, seam side down. Pour sauce over rolls. Microwave at high 11 to 13 minutes, until filling begins to bubble.

Cover with cheddar cheese. Microwave at high 1 to 2 minutes, until cheese is almost melted. Garnish with sour cream and green onions. Makes 4 generous servings.

Cheese Pie With Hamburger Crust

1 egg
½ cup milk
2 cups fresh bread, cubed (3 slices)
½ lb. ground chuck beef
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dried parsley
1¼ cups sliced green onions, including tops, divided
3 eggs
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
3 to 4 drops liquid pepper seasoning (tabasco)
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup milk
Paprika

In large mixing bowl beat egg slightly. Add milk and bread. Toss lightly, then let stand few minutes, until most of liquid is absorbed.

To bread mixture add beef, Worcestershire sauce, salt, thyme, parsley and ¼ cup onions. Mix lightly until combined. Spoon into 9 inch pie plate and spread to line bottom and sides of plate. Sprinkle remaining green onions over crust.

In same bowl beat eggs until foamy. Stir in cheese, liquid pepper seasoning, salt and milk. Pour over green onions in meat crust. Sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Microwave at high 5 minutes, then rotate dish ¼ turn. Microwave at medium 9 to 11 minutes, rotating dish ¼ turn after 5 minutes. Center will be soft but set when done. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Cheese Fondue With Processed Cheese

Processed cheese gives the fondue a very smooth, even texture.

1 cup dry white wine
2 tablespoons kirsch
2½ cups shredded natural Gruyere cheese
2½ cups shredded natural baby Swiss cheese
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon pepper
Dash nutmeg (optional)

In a 2 qt. microwave oven proof fondue pot or casserole place wine and kirsch. Microwave at high 4 minutes, until very hot.

Toss cheeses with flour, pepper and nutmeg, until cheese is well coated. When wine is very hot, whisk or stir in cheese quickly. Cover. Microwave at medium 3 to 4 minutes, stir briskly every minute, until cheese is just melted. Serve immediately with cubes or crusty French bread for dipping. Makes about 4 servings.

Cheese Sandwich Casserole

4 slices bread
Butter
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese
2 eggs
1 cup dairy half and half
2 tablespoons butter, melted
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
dash cayenne pepper

Spread each bread slice with butter. In 10x6x2 inch dish place 2 slices bread, butter side up. Top with 1 cup cheese. Repeat layers.

In mixing bowl beat eggs. Blend in half and half, butter, salt, mustard, paprika, and cayenne pepper. Pour over sandwiches. Cover with wax paper. Microwave at medium 9 to 12 minutes, rotate dish ¼ turn every 3 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

QUESTION — Joan Small, Greene, NY, would like a recipe for making creamed corn.

ANSWER — Estella Fink, Allentown, would like a recipe to make horseradish. Thanks to S.J.M. of Stan's Kitchen in Dallas, for sending a recipe.

Horseradish

2 pounds fresh horseradish, peeled and grated or ground
1 can beets, grated
4 tablespoons vinegar
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons sugar

Combine ingredients. If desired, use red beet water. Pour into jars and store in refrigerator.

ANSWER — JoAnne B. Hill, Lisbon, Md., wanted a recipe for Jell-O Cake. Thanks to Anna Payne, Oxford, for sending a recipe.

Fruit Flavor Pound Cake

1 box yellow cake mix
1 box Jell-O, any flavor
¾ cup water
¼ cup oil
4 eggs
1 teaspoon grated lemon or orange rind, optional

Combine all ingredients and beat at medium speed for 3 minutes. Pour into 2 9-inch greased and floured pans and bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool in pan 15 minutes, remove and finish cooling on rack. Fill and frost with Pastel Fluffy Frosting as follows.

Pastel Fluffy Frosting

Dissolve 1 package Jell-O (any flavor) into 1 cup boiling water. Chill until slightly thickened and add 8-ounces whipped cream topping. Refrigerate leftovers.

CORRECTION — In the August 15 issue, a recipe for Lemon Nut Bars was published. The directions stated that it needed to be sprinkled for 25 minutes. Sorry to all you cooks with tired arms, but a line of instructions was inadvertently missed. Here is the correct version of the recipe thanks to Naomi Blank, Kinzers.

Lemon Nut Bars

1⅓ cups flour
1 cup rolled oats
½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup margarine
½ cup chopped nuts
8 ounces cream cheese
1 egg
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Combine oats, flour, sugars, and salt. Cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in nuts. Reserve 1 cup. Press remaining crumbs onto bottom of greased 13x9-inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

Combine softened cream cheese and egg, mixing until well blended. Blend in lemon juice and rind. Pour over crust; sprinkle with reserved crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Cool; cut into bars.

ANSWER — Joseph Rosin, Middletown, Md., wanted a recipe for sauerkraut soup. Thanks to Vicky Mitchell, who sent the recipe from the faraway corner of Fairbanks, Alaska. Also, thanks to Stan's Kitchen of Dallas, for sending an entirely different recipe.

Sauerkraut Soup

16-ounce can lima beans, drained, slightly mashed
2 medium onions, chopped
¼ cup margarine
1 clove garlic, minced
4 medium potatoes, diced
16-ounce can sauerkraut, drained (save juice)
Pepper, to taste

In skillet, saute onions and garlic in margarine. Add to a pot of lima beans, potatoes, and sauerkraut; cover with water. Cook until potatoes are soft. Add caraway seeds during the last 30 minutes. Add pepper and sauerkraut juice to taste. (This is a great crockpot meal).

Sauerkraut Soup

6 tablespoons chopped onion
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon diced thyme, rounded
½ teaspoon black pepper
3 cups milk
1 cup half and half
8 ounce can sauerkraut with juice
1½ tablespoons finely chopped fresh parsley

Chop the sausage coarsely by hand or in a food processor. Transfer the chopped sausage and onion to a deep pan; saute over medium heat until the sausage is lightly browned, about 8 minutes. On a small plate or wax paper, combine flour, thyme, and pepper. Add to the sausage and brown together until the mixture bubbles up, about 5 minutes. Add the sauerkraut and its juice and bring to a boil. The mixture will continue to thicken. Taste for tartness and add lemon juice, if desired. Add parsley and serve at once.

ANSWER — Ann Moore, Claymont, Del., wanted a simple, delicious recipe for London Broil. Thanks to Jennifer Rake, East Stroudsburg, and to Irma Shockley, Wilmington, DE, for sending a recipe her husband's delicious recipe.

London Broil

Slice 3 to 4 large onions; saute in 4 tablespoons butter, pepper, and Worcestershire sauce. Spread mixture over London Broil, cover, and bake at 350 degrees until desired doneness.

Nat Shockley's London Broil

2 large beef flank steaks (about 2 pounds each) OR 3 pounds beef top round cut to 1¼ -inch thickness.
1 cup salad oil
¼ cup vinegar
½ cup soy sauce
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
2 bay leaves
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
⅛ teaspoon thyme
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper

Combine all ingredients for marinade. Marinate steaks 3 days in refrigerator, turning each day. Place on broiler rack 4-inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes, turn and broil 5 minutes longer or until medium rare. To serve, cut at angle across grain in this strips. Yields 10 servings, approximately 5-ounces each.

ITALIAN SALAD

Italian dressing:
16-ounces lowfat plain yogurt
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
¼ cup chopped fresh parsley
2 teaspoons grated onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Salad:
4 cups torn salad greens
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
1 cup sliced zucchini
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 tomato, cut into wedges
⅔ cup green pepper strips
½ cup French-fried onion rings, if desired

For dressing, combine all ingredients and mix well. Refrigerate, covered, 2 to 3 hours to allow flavors to blend. For salad, combine all ingredients except onion rings in large salad bowl; toss gently. Chill one hour. To serve, spoon salad onto individual plates. Spoon approximately ⅓ cup dressing over each salad. Sprinkle with onion rings. Serve immediately.

GRILLED LAMB RIBLETS DIJON

4 racks lamb breast spareribs (approximately 5 pounds)
2 lemons, halved
1 tablespoon ground coriander
1 tablespoon ground cumin
2 teaspoons ground black pepper
4 large cloves garlic, crushed
¾ cup Dijon-style mustard

Rub lamb racks with cut sides of lemons. Combine coriander, cumin, and pepper; sprinkle equal amounts on both sides of lamb. Place seasoned lamb in plastic bags. Close bags securely and refrigerate 1 hour. Combine garlic with mustard. Brush both sides of lamb with ⅓ cup mustard mixture. Place lamb on grid over medium coals. Grill 16 minutes, turning once. Cover grill; continue grilling 25 minutes or until lamb is tender, turning occasionally. Remove cover, brush both sides of lamb with remaining mustard mixture. Continue grilling 8 minutes, turning once. 6 to 8 servings.

Apple Butter Contest

The Virginia Championship Apple Butter Making Contest will be held on Saturday, September 19, in the Winchester Recreation Park. The annual event is held in conjunction with the Rotary Club's Apple Harvest Festival and affords the participants an opportunity to win $700 in prize money.

The contest is sponsored by the Frederick County Extension Service and the Winchester/Frederick County Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the area apple producers and support businesses. The apple butter must be made in the park on the day of the contest and can be sold on both Saturday and Sunday during the Festival.

If you are interested in trying to unseat the 1991 Virginia Apple Butter Making Champion - Frederick County 4-H County Council/Honor Club - contact the Frederick County Extension Service by writing to: Second Floor, Frederick County Courthouse; 20 North Loudoun Street; Winchester, VA 22601; or phoning (703)665-5699 for rules and an entry form.

Kitchen Kettle Celebrates Harvest

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — Kitchen Kettle Village, Route 340, Intercourse, will celebrate the season with its Annual Harvest Festival on Friday, September 18, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The festival features a bounty of delicious foods, including apple pie, apple dumplings, corn fritters, chicken corn soup, applesauce cake, pumpkin bread, corn relish, and apple butter. Highlights of the day will be a corn cob derby by local fire and ambulance volunteers, a corn creature display throughout the village, and a Chicken Barbecue by the Intercourse and Gordonville Fire Companies.

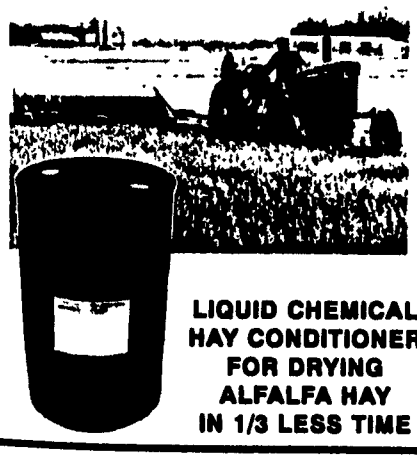
Throughout the Harvest Festival, a musical celebration that includes Banjo Jimmy and the Red Rose Ramblers, the Schlossmen German Band, and the Dixieland Express will add to the fun.

Admission is free and plenty of free parking is available. For further information, contact Kitchen Kettle Village at (717) 768-8261 or 1-800-732-7538.

SWATHER'S CHOICE

ALFALFA HAY CONDITIONER

NEW!



LIQUID CHEMICAL HAY CONDITIONER FOR DRYING ALFALFA HAY IN 1/3 LESS TIME

Alfalfa and other legume crops have a coating of wax. While this coating is a natural protection for the growing plant, it is an inhibitor to moisture loss in field curing and to feed utilization in the digestive system of ruminant animals. The presence of this coating of wax also makes the hay stem brittle and less palatable to livestock.

Swather's Choice "washes off" the outside waxy coating of alfalfa, allowing for the water inside the plant to evaporate more rapidly than in untreated hay. Swather's Choice is actually a soap that is safe for livestock consumption and won't affect palatability.

In studies at Michigan State University, hay treated with the ingredients in Swather's Choice had higher protein and lower fiber. In a further study at Utah State University, cows consumed 2.2 pounds more treated hay per day.

Unlike conventional granular drying agents, Swather's Choice is a liquid chemical hay conditioner. It is easily tank mixed with water and requires only fifteen gallons per acre in most applications, compared with the conventional products that are normally applied at 30 gallons per acre.

Seed Spitting Takes A Big Dose Of Humor — And A Little Skill

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Top question of the summer: What's the most effective way to launch a single watermelon seed great distances?

Just ask Katie Kochera, 11, a member of the Tulpehocken Adventurers 4-H club.

Katie was top dog of the junior division of the watermelon seed spitting contest during the Berks County 4-H Fair recently held at the 4-H Community Center.

She was one of a dozen or so kids who chomped their piece of watermelon fast enough — with hands tied behind their backs — to earn them a spot in the seed-spitting contest.

The first few seeds soared a couple of yards or so.

Then Katie stepped up to the line.

Tickle that seed with your tongue right to the inside of your lips. Stiffen those cheeks so that the perfect amount of thrust combines with velocity. (This is heavy duty physics!)

Take a deep breath. Then — and this is the key, Katie said — pump those arms.

Faloooooom!!!

The seed whizzes through the air, unseen by the naked eye in its heady flight, landing right at Rick Kauffman's feet about 15 feet away. (There was no measuring down to the sixteenth of an inch for this contest.)

Ta-daaaa! Katie is the winner, followed closely by Caitlin Houck, 11, of the Oley Valley Satellites.

And what was on Katie's mind before she popped that seed to its winning distance?

"To beat the one in front of me," she said with a laugh.

Caitlin was a little more attuned to the details.

"Keeping my mouth shut and not getting the seed all slimy," she said.

Hair out of your face, don't worry about getting sloppy; just inhale!

Animals Wear Costumes At Mardi Gras Competition

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Spectators on the last evening of the Kutztown Fair began filling the bleachers early. They were curious to see what kind of costumes would turn up on the animals registered for the first-ever animal Mardi Gras.

Kids' chief interests these days, namely Batman, was much in evidence as spectators saw "Catwoman" in the form of a Hampshire sheep named Stormy, led by "Batman," otherwise known as Jason Levan, 10, of Hamburg. "Catwoman" kept up a steady stream of bleats as Jason led her around the ring.

"She's a reluctant Catwoman," commented one man watching the spectacle.

Levan's was the only entry for sheep, and also took reserve grand champion of the overall show.

Kelly Glaser of Limekiln dressed up her grey housecat in a cat-sized baseball cap and shirt. The wide-eyed cat, pawing at the cap, stayed still in her arms while she paraded with several other animals in the ring. Kelly won grand champion.

Leading his Holstein intermediate calf around the ring wasn't as easy for Brennan Johns of Bethel. The calf was not pleased with the array of baskets roped to her back to depict "Mexican Market Day," and she bucked and ran out of the ring a couple of times. The first time, Brennan held onto her halter and was dragged through the sawdust a few yards before he let go and dusted himself off.

"Now she's acting like a donkey," commented Brennan's mom, who grabbed the halter to stop the calf. "We'll have to do something different for the next fair."

Despite his troubles, Brennan placed third overall. Sarah Johnson, an alternate Berks County Dairy Queen, and her friend,

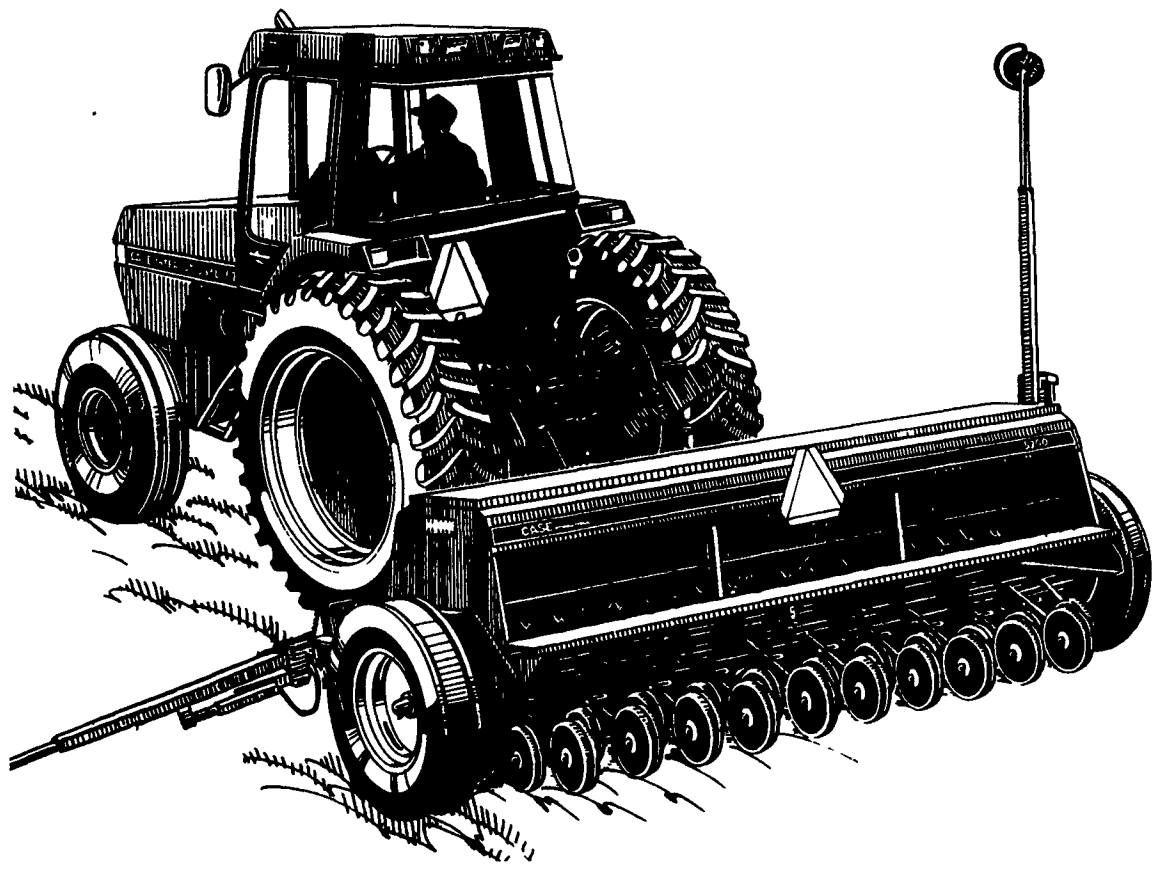
Get Even Stands



There's nothing more important to a crop than early, even emergence. To get it, you need accurate, even seeding, and a Case International 5300 End-Wheel Drill.

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a function of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers. And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models. Press wheel and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers.

Stop in and see the 5300 End-Wheel Drill today.

Sarah Johnson, Berks County alternate Dairy Princess, and Denise Hoch sport a Hawaiian theme for their animals.

Stacey Dietrich, who earlier had the grand champion Holstein in the show, and her friend Jennifer Rassler, were the grand champions in the Mardi Gras, where they depicted a Batman entourage, with Stacey as Vicki Vale and Jennifer as the Joker. Their Holstein was costumed as The Penguin.

Mardi Gras Competition

Denise Hoch, placed fourth with their two Jersey calves in Hawaiian grass skirts .

Sarah and Denise also wore grass skirts over their shorts and walked around the show ring in bare feet.

When told she was taking quite a chance in her bare feet, Sarah replied that she hadn't stepped on anything "big" yet.

Walter Stewart won first-place in the dairy goat division with his goat dressed as a beach bum, and Jennifer Neiman placed second for her goat's rendition of "Back to School."

Stacey Dietrich, who earlier had the grand champion Holstein in the show, and her friend Jennifer Rassler, were the grand champions in the Mardi Gras. They also depicted a Batman entourage, with Stacey as Vicki Vale and Jennifer as the Joker. Their Holstein was costumed as The Penguin. Stacey was thrilled to win again.

"I got two grand champions," she gushed — all in one show!

Justin Levan of Hamburg awaits his turn with "Catwoman," also known as his Hampshire lamb, Stormy.

Farm Women Societies

York Society 26

York County Farm Women 26 met at Beshore's pavilion for the group's annual picnic on August 11 at 12:30 p.m. 16 members were in attendance.

President Ruth Traver conducted the business meetings.

Group 21 from Airville will entertain Group 26 at Rocky Ridge Park.

The next meeting will be September 8 at Conewago Inn. Group 12 from Brogue will be entertained at this meeting.

Berks Society 11

Berks County Farm Women Group #11 meet in the home of Rose Hibshman for a campfire for a hot dog roast.

President Doris Brown conducted the meeting after seven members answered the roll call question: How many years are you married? Discussion about the Scenic River Days were made about making homemade butter there.

A discussion was conducted about plans for the County Convention which will be held October 3 at Shartlesville.

A Tupperware party was scheduled for a fall money project.

The next meeting will be held August 24, at Shartlesville Dairy Queen for miniature golf. Members also tested their skills on knowing kitchen spices by guessing samples.

Lancaster Society 19

The Lancaster County Society of Farm Women #19 met at the home of Opal Ruhl in Landisville, August 8. Harriet (Betsy) Martin shared the account of her experiences when her husband was shot in an attempted robbery.

Members brought contributions for the East Petersburg Food Bank.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My high school class has just had another of their annual picnics. It is a catered affair in a Community Park. Surprisingly about half of the class regularly attends despite the fact that they don't all live in this area anymore.

There have been so many changes since this class started first grade. The township had no high school and everyone walked to a one or two-room school. It was only later that buses were required to gather children and take them to a central location.

Homes did not have the conveniences that most of us do today. Even our clothes had to be different to keep us warm as we trudged to school in all kinds of weather. Brown cotton stockings covered our legs and were held up by garters. My parents did not spend to much time or money shopping—except for shoes. We simply wore what was on hand or what was handed down. My mother had her dresses made over for me to wear, by a lady who simply looked at me and then sewed without a pattern. I'm sure that sometimes the results left a lot to be desired.

One thing that has impressed me in the stores this fall is the bright colors. I wouldn't say they are "shocking pink" but rather every color of the rainbow. The teachers will be greeted by an array of colors.

When my husband and I shopped recently for clothes, for our daughter's wedding, we got more subdued colors. He got a charcoal-colored suit and I picked a pale blue dress with seed pearls. But then, we are not the ones who should stand out at the wedding—that is the bride's job.

Judges at the Ice Cream Churn-off reported their findings after tasting the home made ice cream prepared by the contestants. Dairy Princess; and Thomas Palchak, manager of Penn State Creamery.

Hobbyists Churn Ice Cream For Dollars At Ag Progress

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — It took Harold Geise of Watsontown three years to convince the judges that he made the best ice cream, but this year he did it.

His Nut-tin Honey Ice Cream is premium ice cream at its best according to Thomas Palchak, a judge at Ag Progress's Ice Cream Churn-Off Contest.

"It has a smooth, good texture and rich taste," said Palchak, who is manager of Penn State Creamery.

Geise is no novice when it comes to churning homemade ice cream. "An ice cream freezer was the first appliance my wife and I purchased when we got married," Geise said.

Since then, he wore out four White Mountain freezers in churning up his special concoctions for family and friends.

Now, he uses a White Mountain hand churner, but he hooks it up to a separate electric motor, which gives more power than the standard electric ice cream makers. More power results in a harder ice cream.

Geise, who grew up on a Northumberland County dairy farm now purchases the best dairy products for his mixtures. He said it costs him about $12 to make a freezer full of the prize-winning batch.

He got his idea for the ice cream from the cereal commercial for Nut 'N Honey. He took the basic ingredients of his standard ice cream recipe and swirled in peanut butter and honey rather than mixing it together. The whole family loves it — a requirement for any recipe that he enters in a contest.

Last year, Geise placed second in the Ag Progress Churn-Off when he produced Golden Decadence, which had toasted almonds, chocolate chips, and coconut in it.

The family does not love every experiment he makes. "Once he made prune ice cream and it was awful," said his 11-year-old daughter Melanie.

Now that he captured first place and the $300 prize, what does he plan to do?

"Use the money to get ready for next year," Geise said.

Second place and $150 went to last year's first place winner, Connie Troutman of Mohrsville. She entered Strawberry-Banana Ice Cream.

Champion ice cream makers are Harold and Linda Geise and children, Melanie and Gabriel, who won first place in the Ag Progress Days Ice Cream Churn-Off Contest.

Third place and $100 went to Elsie Smith of Roaring Springs. Her seven grandchildren helped churn the way to success with her Luscious Lemon Ice Cream.

Original flavors were also entered by Benjamin Shriver, Jonestown, with Cherry-Pineapple Ice Cream; Jim Harper, Penna. Furnace, with Jim Bob's Cherry Vanilla; and Harry and Carol Thompson, Mount Joy, with Pumpkin Ice Cream.

Entries must use dairy products, not imitation. Contestants provide their own recipe ingredients and ice cream freezers.

The finished ice cream is judged on effective use of dairy products, taste and visual appeal, recipe originality and creativity, and ease of preparation.

For a copy of all the ice cream recipes that were entered in this year's Ag Progress Churn-Off, write to PA Dairy Promotion Program, 2301 N. Cameron St., Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408 (717) 787-6903.

Here are the three winning recipes.

NUT-TIN HONEY

10 ounces white chocolate, coarsely chopped
14 ounces sweetened condensed milk
2 (12-ounce) cans evaporated milk
8.5 ounces instant vanilla pudding
6 pasteurized egg yolks
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 quart cream
1 cup milk
1 cup peanut butter
1 cup honey

Combine peanut butter and honey. Bring two cups of cream to a boil, remove from heat and add the white chocolate, stir occasionally until chocolate is melted. Combine chocolate mixture, remaining cream, milk, egg yolks, sweetened condensed milk, evaporated milk,

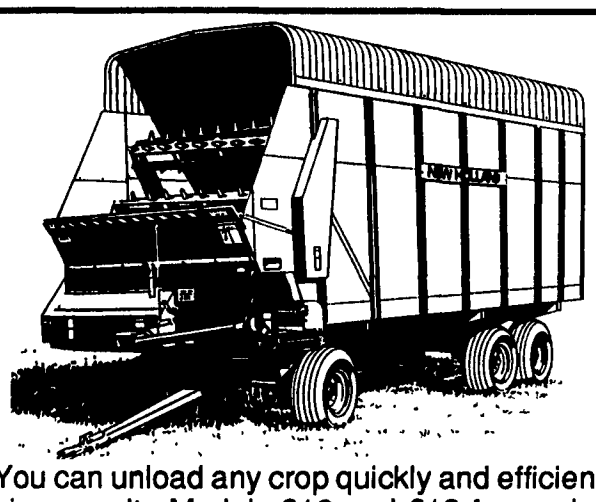
Forage Harvester

When it comes to harvesting, you can't beat the heavy-duty performance that's built into the New Holland Model 790 forage harvester. Performance starts at the cutterhead. The 19 11/16-inch wide, 12-knife cutterhead delivers a fine uniform chop that's just right for most silage feeding operations. And an electric clutch gives instant response and positive control on the reversing gearbox. The Model 790 is available with either a 540-rpm or a 1000-rpm PTO drive.

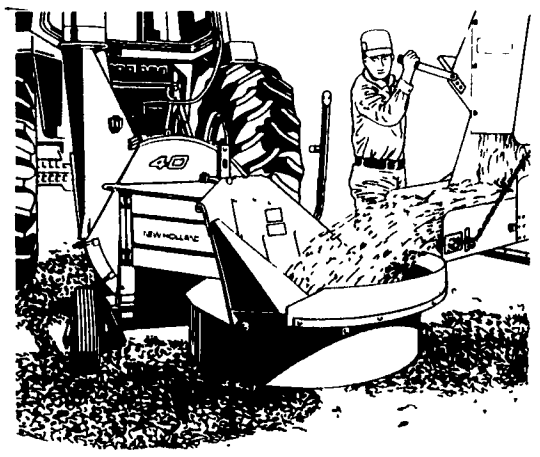
Forage Harvester

If you custom harvest as well as chop your own forage, a self-propelled harvester like the Model 1915 can help you harvest more crop at peak quality. The fuel-efficient 270-horsepower diesel engine and the 24-inch, 12-knife cutterhead give you high-capacity day-in and day-out harvesting. And the exclusive automatic knife sharpener and automatic shearbar adjuster, called Accucut™, combine to give you precision-sharpened knives and a reset shearbar, all from the comfort of the cab.



Forage Box

You can unload any crop quickly and efficiently with the new big-capacity Models 816 and 818 forage boxes from Ford New Holland. Roller chain drive provides unloading speeds of 3.0 and 7.1 feet-per-minute. And tough Duraply sides flex under heavy loads for season-after-season dependability. The "816" and "818" unload from the front and come standard with three self-aligned beaters and baked-enamel galvanized roof.



Forage Blower

Every minute you can save at the blower means more loads per day and more overall productivity. Let us demonstrate the New Holland Model 40 forage blower and we believe you'll agree you can increase your silage productivity.

The Model 40, with 20 percent greater tip speed than previous models, center fills silos over 80 feet high.

Food Trends Promoted At Ag Progress Demonstrations

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — "I'm a diabetic and when I'd go out to eat, I'd feel like a second class citizen," said Michael Thompson who believes that most diabetic desserts available taste "like licking asphalt."

So Thompson developed a frozen dessert that is non-fat, sugar-free, and made from whey, a byproduct of cheese. It has only 40 calories compared to ice cream's 135.

Visitors at Ag Progress Days sampled Thompson's frozen dessert and other trendy foods from a few of Pennsylvania's 2,300 food processors.

According to several who tasted the frozen dessert at Ag Progress, the dessert tastes smooth, creamy, and superior to many of the yogurts and non-fat desserts on the market.

Thompson, who founded Health Smart Products Inc. to manufacture the frozen dessert, said, "It's a niche product made for those who need to limit fat or sugar in their diet. Because it is made with the natural sweetener fructose, diabetics can enjoy it."

The product is actually a dry powder mix that is sold to restaurants and must be mixed in a soft serve or milk shake machine since it is 70 percent air. Thirty-eight flavors are available from Health Smart Products, Inc., (800 634-8849).

Some of the exhibits at Ag Progress showed how food manufacturers meet consumer demands for convenience, flavor, safety, nutrition, and packaging. With the help of videos and demonstrations, Verdelli Farms in Hummelstown showed how the family-owned firm grows, packs, and processes fresh vegetables. One of their big sellers is the prepared chopped vegetables that are washed, packed, and refrigerated for easy use in stir-fry dishes.

"Consumers are willing to pay more for convenience," said Kelly Deitz, representative from Verdelli Farms.

Home economist Faye Strickler showed the crowd how to use the prepared vegetables to make a quick and healthy stir-fry seasoned with oil, ginger, and soy sauce.

Dr. Joseph MacNeil, professor of food science, explained a new pasteurized frozen egg product that he helped develop to save processors time and money to control the quality and safety of eggs. The whole eggs are reduced to pellet size through evaporation, freezing, and drying. The pea-sized yellow pellets rehydrate into the real thing. He believes that shell eggs will become obsolete as consumers experience the convenience and food safety of using the pellet-sized eggs.

Representatives at the Meating Place showed the crowd how to select, prepare and cook pork, beef, and lamb. Consumers were urged to think about the cost of serving not just the price per pound when purchasing cuts.

"Although the boneless cuts are more expensive per pound, they may be less costly when considered on a cost-per-serving basis, said Dr. William Henning, assistant professor of animal science. "Shopping smart and being aware of the value of different cuts of meat can reduce your grocery bill."

Consumers who participated in the cooking demonstration learned new methods of cooking and tips for everyday use. In the demonstration on cooking pork, the chef said, "Don't put sauce on top of your meat unless you have a tasteless piece of meat. Put the sauce on the plate and lay the meat on top of the sauce.

"Ground pork," he told the audience, "cooks quicker than ground beef." For this reason, ground pork burgers should be thicker to keep the meat from separating.

Culinary students from Harrisburg Area Community College assisted in the demonstrations and handed out samples to the crowd. Recipes and information about the various meats were available.

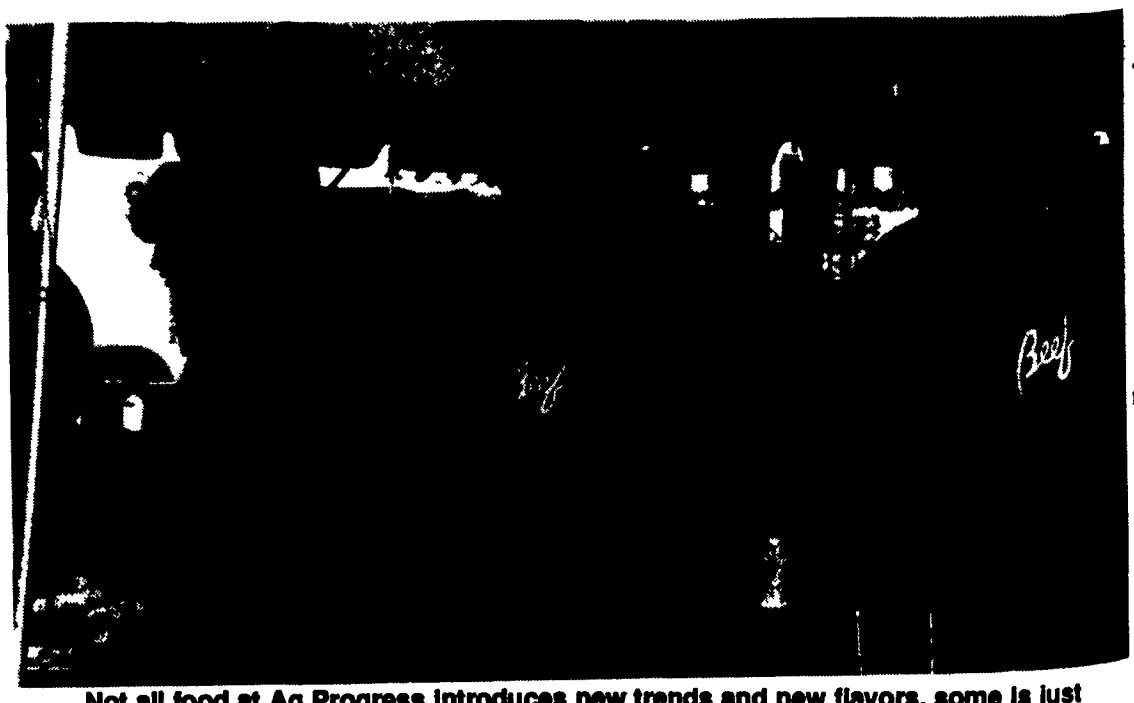
For those who missed the demonstrations, recipes are available from the following sources: National Pork Producers Council, Box 10383, Des Moines, Iowa 50306 (515) 223-2600. Both the Meat Board Test Kitchens & Beef Industry Council, and the Lamb Committee are at 444 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL 60611, (312) 670-5520.

Eager crowds reach for sample servings of the stir-fry, prepared by Faye Strickler, Berks County home economist.

Eleven-year-old Michael Gray and his mother, Virginia, from Indiana County attend the food demonstrations at Ag Progress every year. "I like the free stuff — like popcorn and testing food," Michael said. His mother said, "I like everything. There is such a variety of things to do here."

Marie Dempsey from Minnesota visited Ag Progress with her grandchildren, Rose, 10; and Judith, 13; who live at State College. The Dempseys enjoyed sampling the stir fry, an example of trendy, healthy food.

Shirley Keller of State College discusses the benefits of using frozen desserts developed by Michael Thompson, president of the Health Smart Products, Inc.



Not all food at Ag Progress introduces new trends and new flavors, some is just good old-fashioned favorites like the beef rib-eyed sandwiches prepared by FFA'ers and supporters.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Pork Contest For Youth

The Pennsylvania Duroc, Hampshire, and Yorkshire swine associations will conduct a "Pork Contest For Youth" during their annual autumn show and sale at the Lebanon Fairgrounds on Saturday, September 12.

The contest is open to all 4-H and FFA youth interested in swine. It will test pork knowledge and skill levels in different categories. Top participants will be awarded buyer's credits for the feeder pig sale held following the contest.

The schedule for the day includes: 12:00 noon - Breeding Stock Show; 2:00 p.m. - pork contest registration; 3:00 p.m. - pork contest for youth begins; and 6:00 p.m. - Feeder Pig Sale and contest awards.

The contest will include some of the following classes: feeder pig judging class, pork chop judging class, swine equipment identification, swine management quiz, breeding gilt class, feed identification, retail pork identification, and/or breed identifications.

The contest will be conducted in junior and senior divisions with a total of $300 in buyer credits awarded. For more information, contact Chet Hughes. Penn State Cooperative Extension, (717) 394-6851 or Steve Wilson (717) 235-3478.

Goat 4-H'ers Excel In County Show

Eleven 4-H'ers showed 17 goats at the York County Goat 4-H Show during the 4-H Fair recently.

The judge for the show was Anne Leader of Wellsville.

Youth that showed in the event were Raymond Newlin III, Joey Russell, Melissa Benner, Richard Lybarger, Wayne Kraun, Robert Willwert, Andrea Kraun, Matthew Blower, Jennie Blower, Melissa Newlin and Elizabeth Newlin.

Junior grand champion and best junior doe in show for the registered does went to Jennie Blower with Stump Hollow NRB Calico. Junior grand champion in the grade doe division went to Robert Willwert with Bay-Oaks Corner Misty. The senior grand champion in the registered doe division went to Richard Lybarger with Araloosa AJL Greta Levisa. The senior champion buck and best buck in the show award went to Rboert Willwert with OHF Bonzai Beowulf.

In the fitting and showing classes, the following individuals received first or second place: junior division (8 to 10 years old): first - Richard Lybarger, second - Joey Russell; intermediate division (11 to 13 years old): first - Melissa Benner, second - Jennie Blower.

For information on the York County 4-H program, contact Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 757-9657.

Lycoming County 4-H

On Saturday, August 15, 4-H'ers from Lycoming County participated in the District V 4-H Horse Show at the Clinton County Fairgrounds.

Nine other surrounding counties also participated in the show.

The district show is the second level of competition that a 4-H member can be involved in before they potentially move onto the State 4-H Horse Show at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Members participated in classes ranging from trail riding to pole bending. 4-H members plan and practice throughout the year for the chance to be able to make it to the state show.

Members placing at the District V show were:

• Floyd Sholder- 2nd place grooming and showmanship - 13-15 year olds. He is the son of Floyd and Ida Sholder, Linden.

• Stephanie Beaver- 1st place grooming and showmanship - 16 years and older, 1st place - county team, 2nd place hunter seat equitation senior division. She is the daughter of James and Patricia Beaver, Allenwood.

• Amber Irion- 1st place county team, 2nd place in pleasure pairs. She is the daughter of John and Diane Irion, Montoursville.

• Jamie Weaver- 2nd place pleasure pairs, 1st place county team. She is the daughter of Alfred and Joan Hauser, Cogan Station.

• Angela Bohr- 2nd place western pleasure ponies (12.2 hands and under). She is the daughter of Mike Bohr, Williamsport and Mrs. Candi Kinley, Williamsport.

• Erika Worobec- 2nd place open trail pony. She is the daughter of William and Pam Worobec, Williamsport.

• Amanda Staggs- 1st place hunter hack horses. She is the daughter of Gary and Candy Staggs, Williamsport.

STRAWBERRY-BANANA ICE CREAM

1 quart milk
2 cups sugar
½ cup cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
4 pasteurized egg yolks
1 package unflavored gelatin
1 quart cream
4 egg whites
2 bananas
2 cups strawberries

Scald milk and add sugar, cornstarch, and salt that has been blended in 1 cup cold milk. Cook until thick, add egg yolks that have been mixed with 2 tablespoons milk. Cook 1 minute. Remove from heat, add gelatine that has been soaked in 3 tablespoons cold milk. Mix well, cool, then add well beaten egg whites. Add strawberries and bananas that have been blended with the cream, just before freezing in ice cream freezer. Makes 4 to 5 quarts.

LUSCIOUS LEMON ICE CREAM

2½ cups sugar
6 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
5 cups milk
2 cans sweetened condensed milk
6 pasteurized eggs
2 cups whipping cream
2 cups light cream
1½ cups fresh lemon juice
2 packages unflavored gelatin

In a heavy saucepan, heat milk until it scalds. Mix eggs, cornstarch, sugar, and salt. Stir into milk until it forms into a soft custard. Soften unflavored gelatin in the lemon juice. Stir this into the custard mix and add sweetened condensed milk. Let custard mixture cool, then add whipping cream and light cream. Stir and pour into freezer. Makes 4 quarts.

Lancaster Honors Outstanding 4-H'er

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — After she heard the announcement of her name, Marilyn Holloway said her "face just dropped right to the ground."

Still shaken, and hugging her mother closely, Marilyn tried to recover from the surprise of being named Outstanding 4-H'er for 1993 last week at the Lancaster 4-H Achievement Night.

The honor is presented to a 4-H'er who has shown outstanding leadership and participation in a variety of 4-H programs in the county.

Marilyn, 17, daughter of Clifford H. and Joyce Holloway, Peach Bottom, is a senior at Solanco High School and is a member of the Solanco Community Club. Marilyn has been showing seven of the nine years in 4-H, and has traveled twice to the State 4-H Achievement Days in State College.

In her speech (part of the selection process), Marilyn said the 4-H club provided her with the "skills to prepare for the future." She placed in many sewing and craft contests.

Scholarships through the 4-H program in the county were awarded to Eileen Holm, 1992 outstanding 4-H'er, $1,250; Brian McLaughlin, $1,250; Sharon Harnish, $500; and Kim Kettering, $500.

The county's talent contest featured a total of 32 contestants. The finals were held during the achievement night, and the results are, first place, Josh Sheetz, Solanco Community Club, who played the saxophone; second place to Heather, Aaron and Elisa Ranck, Pequea Valley 4-H Club, who performed a skit, "Music, the International Language"; and third, Jessica Haver, Mt. Joy Community Club, with a tapdance to "Robert E. Lee."

Junior honor roll winners are Josh Sheetz, Judy Geissinger, Joy Young, Kelly Sullivan, and Gerald Boyd. Senior honor roll winners are Megan East, Jessica Hill, and Becky Preiss.

According to Zoann Parker, 4-H coordinator, Lancaster County sent 53 4-H members to Penn State to compete in their respective contest. Overall, the county did very well, and most teams placed in the top 10 with members of teams placing in the top five. Three from the Fashion Revue group placed in the top ten honors group, including Marlene Enck, Becky Badger, and Laura Schaffer.

Two Lancaster 4-H members have been chosen to represent Pennsylvania at the National 4-H Congress in Chicago in December: Eileen Holm, public speaking and Spring Younts, citizenship.

Eileen Holm, Lancaster County's 1992 Outstanding 4-H'er, right, congratulates Marilyn Holloway, the 1993 Outstanding 4-H'er at the 4-H Achievement Night held last week.

Tanya Zelger Explores Texas As Part Of 4-H Exchange

BETH WHITMAN PITZER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Tanya Zelger, age 15, is one of several 4-H'ers in Cumberland County who had the opportunity to travel to Texas on an exchange program July 9 through 15. The 4-H'ers goal was to experience another culture and state. They did exactly that. Hale Center is a small town of less than 3,000 located in the Texas Panhandle about 32 miles from Lubbock Texas. During her time there, she experienced a play, saw Steve Martin in a movie, went horseback riding, and of course shopped and tasted some of the local Mexican food.

One of her dominant impressions of Texas was how flat and barren it was, and that the people were really friendly. She was also impressed by the number of tarantulas she saw running wild. Pictures of giant-sized black tarantulas and Palo Duro Canyon are some of the shots Tanya brought back to share.

Tanya toured with her host family, the Rambos, part of the time. Other times 4-H'ers toured as a larger group. Palo Duro Canyon was a spot of real interest. A piece of loose marble is a treasure Tanya found for her dad while at the canyon. She also enjoyed horseback riding and watching a musical romance, "Texas" right in the canyon. The musical featured panhandle history and special effects. Lightning hitting rocks was a special effect she had never seen before.

The highlight of her trip was seeing Steve Martin filming "Leap of Faith" in nearby Plainview and actually shaking his hand. She smiled and shared, "It was so much fun being able to be there!" The 4-H youth all had the opportunity to be in background scenes of this Paramount shooting which is expected to be released in December.

Youth who needed assistance with wardrobing for the film had a chance to visit the Wardrobe Van to complete their outfits. Tanya was surprised by some of the colors they put together for the film. Orange shorts with a red top isn't exactly what she'd normally pull together.

Learning about culture always includes tasting new foods. Tanya was pleasantly surprised when the burrito she ordered was "pretty good and not too hot." She also visited the National Ranching Heritage Center, Panhandle Plains Museum, and a local winery originally developed by the Mexicans.

Most of the agriculture in the northern panhandle where they visited sported pigs, some sheep, and steers. Few milk cows were to be found. A group of local hosts played a typical Texan joke on the youth. They were to go "Snipe Hunting". A Snipe, they were told, is a small bird with a long beak similar to the Australian Kiwi. They were to hit the little bird over the head with a stick, stuff it in a bag, and see how many they could find! After a few minutes the group caught on that they had been had in a good joke.

A banquet was held at the end of the week where stories were

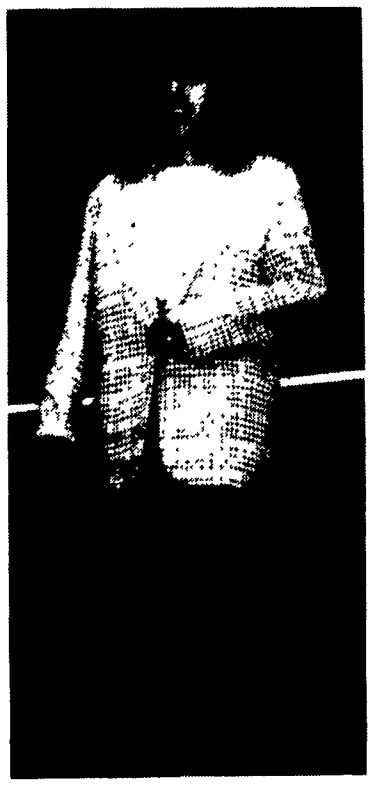
Olympic Theme Prevails At Cumberland County 4-H Expo

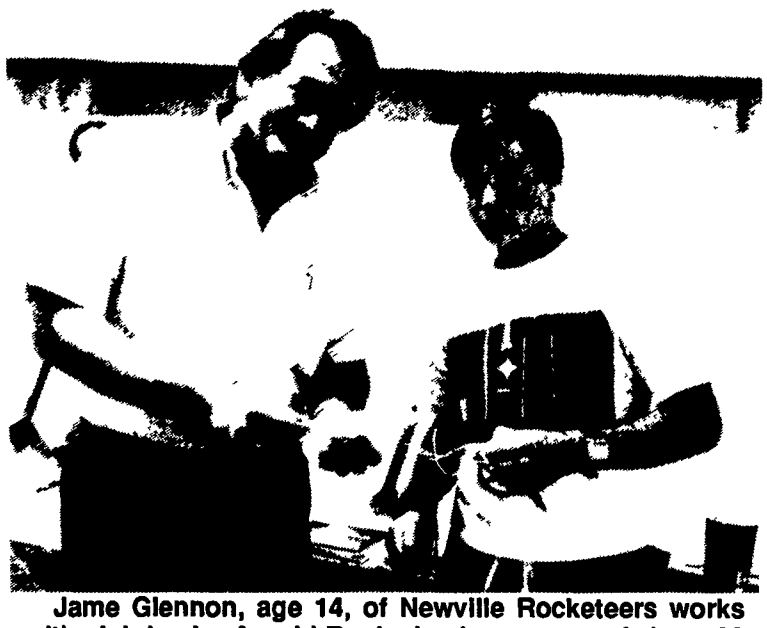
BETH WHITMAN PITZER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — The MJ Mall in Carlisle was the site for the 4-H Expo and Roundup in Cumberland County. It was held on August 13 and 14. This year featured a candlelight opening with an Olympic theme on Thursday evening. The Expo and Roundup gathers all projects made by youth throughout the year, except for large animal projects. It also gives youth and teens a chance to model garments they have made in one fashion show.



Kimberly Orris of Flying Fingers Club, sported a beautiful shaped jacket in grey and rose plaid.

Sylvania Negley, 4-H program assistant and Expo coordinator, explained that conference judging was used for projects this year. This gives youth an opportunity to talk with judges about their projects and facilitates suggestions on how youngsters can improve. Many projects were entered on topics ranging from rocketry to birds.



Jame Glennon, age 14, of Newville Rocketeers works with club leader Arnold Rook. Jamie was one of about 20 members who made and displayed rocket projects.

On Friday, in addition to the exhibits being displayed, small animal judging was held in the evening, followed by more presentations on stage. Overall, learning by doing was reflected in many members projects as well as the garments many youth had made. In 1992, the participants modeled the "Olympic Spirit of sharing their very best!"

Tanya Zelger

shared and gag gifts were exchanged. Tanya thought the whole week was fun. In fact, it was one of her favorite 4-H experiences. She's a member of the Flying Finger's 4-H Club. This year she participated in the 4-H Expo and in the Foods and Nutrition Contest at State Days.

This upcoming school year, Tanya will be a sophomore at Trinity High School in Camp Hill. She's a member of the band "doing flags". She runs track and cross-country. Five miles a day is her present goal to get started for upcoming practices. She's also a member of Speech Club and was a cheerleader last season.

Tanya is the daughter of Mary and Rudolph Zelger of Carlisle. She has a sister, Natasha, who is 12 and more commonly called "Tasha", a Cocker Spaniel, and a cat "Hitler" named for his dark mustache. Tanya would definitely like to go to college and hopes to major in a science field. Marine biology is something she thinks would be interesting.

8 Great Reasons To Keep Roundup® Around All Year Around.

All around the farm, all season long, versatile Roundup® herbicide can help you in more ways than any other herbicide. From weed control along fencerows to controlling the toughest perennials like milkweed, johnsongrass or bindweed, Roundup can handle the job. And because the price has been reduced 40% since 1985, Roundup is a better buy than ever. See me for versatile, economical Roundup. It's the help you need all around the place.

- Get rid of weeds around your farmhouse, driveway and patio this summer.
- Eliminate grasses along fences, ditches and roads during the summer.
- Clean up perennials after harvest.
- Renovate pastures in spring or fall.
- Reduce mowing trips on set-aside all summer long.
- Control weeds pre-plant in early spring.
- Stop in-crop weeds with a spot spray or pipewick in July.
- Control brush anytime you've got time.

Chester County 4-H Holds Successful Roundup

WESTCHESTER (Chester Co.) — The 1992 Chester County 4-H Round-UP was held on August 1, at Hibernia County Park. The activity was a huge success thanks to 4-H'ers, parents, judges, leaders, and staff.

In the morning, judges had the difficult task of choosing the winning projects from the 113 entries in 23 project areas.

While judging was in progress, the 4-H'ers participated in games organized by the County 4-H Representative Council when not involved in a meeting with the judges.

During the afternoon Acheivement Program, 4-H'ers enjoyed presentations by Noel Scheib, Chester County Dairy Princess. Participants in the following 4-H activities were recognized: 4-H Japanese Host Program, 1992 Poster Contest, 4-H Blue Forms, 4-H Mini Forms, Shaver's Creek Trip, Camp Shehaqua, Round-Up games, and the 1992 Chester County Round-Up winners.

The following 4-H'ers received grand champion and reserve grand Champion Awards at Round-Up: Forestry Orienteering - Tanya Hofler, grand champion; Rabbit Production - Tanya Hofler, grand champion, Carrie Armstrong, reserve; Babysitting, Foods & Nutrition I - Carrie Allen, grand champion, Christina Espongo, reserve; Blue Sky - Tanya Hofler, grand champion, Laura Dillinger, reserve; Career Exploration - Latisha Deveaux, grand champion, Jequatta Parker, reserve; Clothing & Textiles - Brooke Mullins, grand champion, Betsy Brown, reserve; Computer - Rick Dillinger, grand champion, Jim Baer, reserve; Open Class Crafts - Holly Simasek; grand champion, Erica Lloyd and Jody Hewitt; reserve; Planteria - Vicky Hewitt, grand champion, Erica Lloyd, reserve; Learning About Horses - Hilary Kalmbach, grand champion, Whitney Kalmbach, reserve; Officer Books - Jessica Moore, grand champion, Jesse Holmes, reserve; Pet Care I - Jody Hewitt, grand champion, Laura Dillinger, reserve; Pet Care 2 - Sara Claypoole, grand champion; Air Riflery - Erica Lloyd, grand champion, Vicky Hewitt, reserve; Advanced Riflery - Amy Hewitt, grand champion, Henry Yorgey, reserve; Individual Scrapbooks - Vicky Hewitt, grand champion, Jody Hewitt, reserve; Storyboards - Katina Wallace, grand champion, Paul Zimmerman, reserve; Wildlife - Rick Dillinger, grand champion, Alexandra Hofler, reserve.

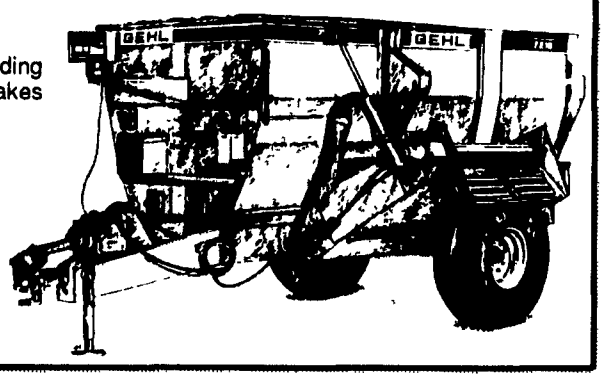
Gehl TMR Mixer Feeders Are #1

Nothing can maximize the return on investment in your dairy or beef feeding operation like a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) feeding system. And nothing makes TMR work better than a Gehl mixer feeder. Here's why:

- Better Mixing Action - Unique four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy Efficient - Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built To Last - Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Six Sizes - From 150 to 500 cubic feet mixing capacities.
- Three Styles - Trailer type, stationary and truck-mounted units to fit your operation.



When you're checking out box-type manure spreaders, look to Gehl for a better spreader! Gehl box spreaders are available in five sizes ranging from 135 to 425 bushel heaped capacities. Gehl box spreaders deliver these and many more advanced features:

- Gehl-Tuff flooring is slippery so manure slides out easily.
- T-bar apron chains are extra-strong for durability.
- Galvanized steel sides are more corrosion resistant.
- Single or tandem axle models available.
- 10-year warranty on sides and floors.
- Hydraulic apron drive (optional) to match your specific application needs.

EVEN WHEN IT'S EMPTY...IT'S LOADED!

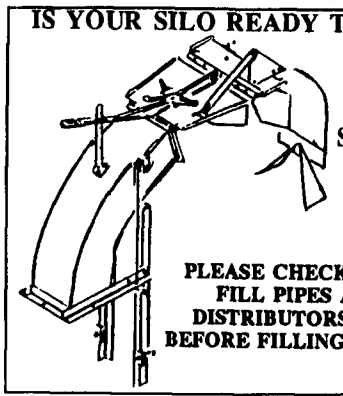
S & S SILO SERVICE

ATTENTION FARMERS
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete
STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

WILL SERVICE 3 TO 4 DAYS OR LESS ON MOST JOBS

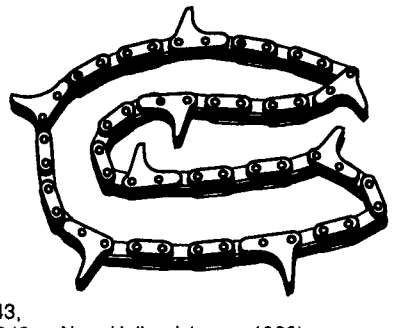
Save 46%

- This made-in-the-USA chain provides up to 80% more wear than imported "look-alikes."
- It produces improved yields at the higher ground speeds common with today's machines.
- You'll stop less, make fewer adjustments, and put more corn in your tank with high quality Case IH chain.
- Fits Case IH 800, 900 and 1000 Series Heads, plus recent production Deere and New Holland machines.



Applications: Case IH 800, 900, 1000 Series Deere 243, 244, 343, 344, 443, 444, 543, 546, 642, 643, 644, 645, 842, 843 New Holland (since 1980)

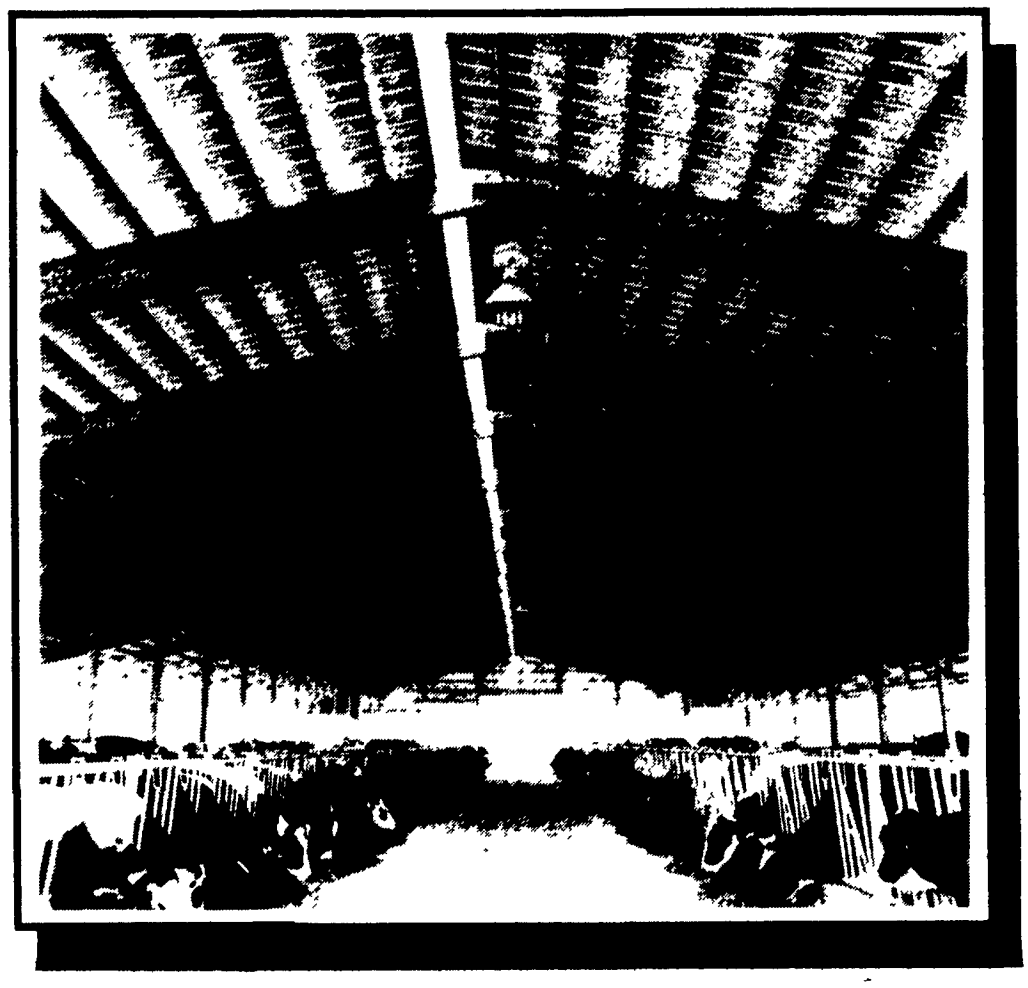
MEMBER NFBA NATIONAL FRAME BUILDERS ASSOCIATION INC

Rigidply Rafters laminated beams offer many advantages when building Homes, Schools, Churches and Commercial, Recreational and Agricultural structures. Our beams are available in Industrial, Architectural and Premium Appearance Grades. The rich warm feeling they create enhances any structure.

Laminated beams are superior in all strength characteristics to solid sawn lumber; they resist checking and twisting because of the use of multiple plies of kiln dried lumber, bonded together with phenol-rescorcinal glue.

Rigidply Rafters Inc., has been manufacturing glue laminated products since its initial start up in 1954. We are confident that with our efficient manufacturing plant, team of quality control experts, engineering and sales personnel, we can ensure you a dimensionally stable and dependable product.



108' x 204' (Interior view) Free Stall Barn Featuring Glu-lam straight beams & Glu-lam posts

Manufacturers Of:

- Glu-Lam Arches
- Glu-Lam Beams
- Glu-Lam Treated Posts
- Roof Trusses
- Floor Trusses
- T&G And V-Groove Decking

We Stock:

- Equus Quality Stall Systems
- Door And Wall Systems
- Grillwork Sections
- Dutch Door Systems
- Plyco Doors And Windows
- Cannonball Track And Acc.
- Fabral Roofing And Siding
- Lumber And Shingles
- All Types Of Fasteners

Since quality is our number one concern, the glue joints are routinely tested in the Rigidply Quality Laboratory for strength and durability.

To better serve you, we offer our beams in a variety of lumber species: Southern Yellow Pine (CCA treated and untreated), Douglas Fir, Poplar and Cedar.

In the final phase of the manufacturing process the beams can be cut, drilled, stained and sealed to your specification. A protective wrapping can be applied to maintain the beauty and quality of the beams during delivery and installation.

Record Broken At Livestock Sale

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Only one record was broken at the Junior Livestock Sale held recently at the Bedford County Fair.

Bill Campbell, woner of Hoss's Steak and Seafood and Bedford Ford, bid $15 for the 250-pound grand champion hog owned by Amber Eshelman of New Enterprise.

Campbell had a battle of the bids with Bob Turkovich of American Outfitters over the grand champion market steer owned by Mike Miller of Schellsburg. The grand champion lamb was also owned by Miller.

Turkovich won those two, paying $10.75 for the 126-pound lamb and $8.25 for the 1,166-pound steer.

Miller donated 3 percent of his earnings to the 4-H Scholarship Fund.

Turkovich ordered the grand champion market lamb to be resold with the money being donated to the Memorial Hospital of Bedford County. It resold at $1.50 per pound to Sipes Locker Plant in Everett.

Grand champion lamb was bought by Bob Turkovich of American Outfitters for $10.75 a pound.

Campbell paid $4.25 per pound for the 1,257-pound reserve grand champion steer owned by Barry Smith of Artemas, and ordered the animal to be sent to the Shawnee Valley Ox Roast. He donated an extra 5 percent to the 4-H Scholarship Fund.

Turkovich paid $5.25 a pound for the reserve champion hog and it was resold at $3.75 per pound with proceeds going to the 4-H Scholarship Fund. The 244-pound hog was owned by Nicki Smith of New Enterprise.

The reserve champion 117-pound lamb, owned by Andy Blackburn, was bought by Campbell for $5.75 per pound.

The third place overall home bred champion 1,267-pound steer of Ladonna Miller, went to American Outfitter's for $1.55.

Mary Claycomb's 1,219-pound reserve home bred champion sold for $1.20 to Frank Bittner of Snyder's Gateway.

Mary Claycomb's lightweight 1,063-pound champion went for $1 to Bedford Farm Bureau.

Past grand champion winner, Nathan Claycomb, had the light-

POULTRY BREEDING AND BROILER PRODUCTION: WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO YOU?

Guy F. Barbato
Assistant Professor
Poultry Science

Poultry breeding and genetics has long been considered to be one of the deep, dark mysteries of broiler production, better left alone.

However, an understanding of the breeder industry and the methods used to genetically improve broiler production can increase your profits through appropriate selection of breeder stock and/or broiler types for your particular operation.

First, a little history. In 1945, the average chicken took about 100 days to achieve a 3-½ pound body weight. In 1991, a comparable chicken can achieve a 3-½ pound weight in 32 days.

These days, not many people want a 3-½ pound chicken, so a more typical broiler will grow to 4 to 4-½ pounds in 40-42 days of age with an overall feed conversion (feed consumed per pound body weight) of less than two.

This unprecedented increase in productivity was primarily due to genetic selection for body weight. That is, the largest parents were picked to parent the next generation of chickens.

Current estimates suggest that the broiler owes about 80 percent of its gains in growth over the last 50 years to this process.

While the details of the mating schemes vary among the breeder companies, the basic principles are the same. This process involves the establishment of a pedigreed population of known genealogy — or family tree — made up of about 40 families, with one rooster and 8-12 hens per family.

The progeny of these families are screened for a variety of production traits with only the very best chickens selected to participate in breeding the next generation. Depending upon the breeder company's goals, traits which might be used to evaluate the chicks include body weight, feed conversion, meat yield, and/or disease resistance.

These criteria directly affect the performance of your broilers. Therefore, it's fair game to ask what criteria are used by your breeder.

For example, if you are growing a bird for the further processed market, you'd probably want to make sure you had a fast growing bird with heavy body weight, and preferably, high breast yield. Alternatively, if you were growing birds for a fried chicken restaurant, that big bird would never fit in the bucket!

Needless to say, it requires a number of broiler breeders producing 150 to 165 hatching eggs in her life to produce the 6.5 billion or so broilers grown in the U.S. in 1991. This being the case, breeder companies have set up a multiplication scheme to transmit genetic progress efficiently to the next generation and increase the numbers of broilers for production.

The pedigree population serves as the source of the great-grandparent generation (GGP), who then serve as the parents of the grandparents (GP), who are the parents of the primary breeders, who produce the broiler chick. In each generation, the number of hens increases almost 100 times, so that approximately 2,000 pedigree hens produce all the broilers in the U.S.!

This may seem pretty complicated. However, we're not done yet! If only one type of breeder was used from pedigree to broiler, anyone could become a breeder company by growing out broilers to breeder age. Most breeders utilize three, and sometimes four, pedigreed stocks of chickens to make up a broiler. So the broiler is not a pureline, but rather a cross, or hybrid, of several stocks; just like the corn used in their feed.

In general, the pedigree, GGP, and GP generations are pureline breeds. Two GP stocks are crossed to produce the female primary breeder. This process not only protects the breeder from potential theft of genetic stocks, but enables the breeder to take advantage of hybrid vigor, or heterosis (just like in corn), to improve traits such as egg production of the breeder hen.

The hybrid primary breeder hen is then crossed with a rooster. When obtained from the same breeder that supplies the breeder hen, the breeder rooster is usually a pureline.

However, a breeder rooster obtained from a different company is often a hybrid, to improve its fertility and libido (or mating ability). The added advantage of the breeder hybridization scheme to the broiler producer is the improvement of feed conversion due to hybrid vigor. This, among other things, has the net effect of decreasing carcass fat for the processor.

The key elements to taking advantage of this information consists of knowing what the selection criteria are for the particular breeder or broiler, and how well those criteria meet the demands of your operation.

OUTSTANDING IN OUR FIELD

Kubota's B-Series and L-Series tractor are outstanding in their field anywhere you perform general or weekend farming. Kubota tractors are powerful, ranging from 10-49 PTO HP. They're versatile too - with quick-attach implements that simplify mowing, scraping, tractor/loader/backhoe and tilling.

Select a compact yet powerful B-Series Kubota for HST transmission, power steering and optional Bi-Speed Turn. A mid size L-Series Kubota offers a variety of transmissions including the Ever-Clutch and advanced Glide Shift Transmission.

So why not come in and take a closer look at these outstanding field workers, the Kubota B and L-Series tractors.

weight reserve champion, which was bought by Hoss's Steak and Seafood for $2.

The grand carcass in hog competition was owned by Scott Myers of Bedford and bought by Bedford Farm Bureau for $7.

The lightweight champion lamb was purchased for $1.70 by Suzanne Dollar. Heather Schaeffer saw her reserve lightweight champion lamb sell for $3.75.

American Outfitters bought both the reserve middleweight and reserve heavyweight lambs. They were owned by Mike Beutman of Alub Bank and Tracy Henderson of Schellsburg.

Think Ahead For 1993: Soil Test After Harvest

MUNDELEIN, Ill. — When combined with research and local experience, fall soil testing can provide farm operators with accurate and reliable estimates of the type and quantity of fertilizer needed to produce maximum economic yields (MEY) for 1993.

Dr. Sam Kincheloe, director of agronomic services for IMC Fertilizer, Inc., Mundelein, Ill., recommends fall testing after harvest for management efficiency.

"Soil testing is a practice most frequently omitted when spring field work is restricted by time. As the springtime rush can cause operators to bypass soil testing prior to planting, the best aletrnative is post harvest testing."

According to the agronomist, this year's investment in intensive soil sampling during the fall months can result in efficient use of fertilizer inputs and lead to increased profitability for the 1993 production year.

"Maximum economic yields can't be reached without up-to date soil test results," said Kincheloe. "And when it becomes the annual issue every spring, the fall alternative is a good one."

Kincheloe said research continues to prove that it's agronimically sound to apply needed phosphorus, potassium, and other essential elements on most soils in the fall. Fall soil testing provides the necessary guidelines for accurate application rates of needed nutrients.

As a reminder, soil test interpretations can be influenced dramatically by how and when the samples are taken. The fundamental guidelines for collection should be obtained from the testing lab analyzing the samples. Also, the tests to be performed will dictate the depth of sampling required. For example, nitrate nitrogen analysis almost always required deeper sampling than for phosphorus and potassium.

"Depth, timing and handling can all influence test results especially in today's conservation tillage systems," said Kincheloe. "Once the proper sampling procedures are outlined by the lab, they should be followed each year. This is particularly important if the same individual doesn't do the sampling annually."

As a management tool, the benefits of fall soil testing include:

- Improved yields the following growing season
- Aids in efficient use of inputs
- Helps to achieve maximum production of the field.
- Consistent crop growth
- Enhances stewardship of the land.

From an environmental standpoint, according to Kincheloe, the potential for environmental protection can be enhanced through a fertilizer management program based on fall soil testing as well as spring testing.

"Soil testing is environmentally sound because it enables efficient use of nutritional resources, protects water quality by identifying realistic needs, and aids in soil preservation by reducing spring field passes. It also builds natural pest resistance by producing healthier plants, identifies yield-limiting factors in specific soils, and increases the crop residue that reduces erosion," he said.

To Provide Help For Exports

DENVER, Colo. — The U.S. Meat Export Federation (USMEF) will assist U.S. packers as they respond to the announcement by the USDA that Export Enhancement Program (EEP) funds will be available for 30,000 metric tons of pork exports to former Soviet Union countries.

The National Pork Producers Council and USMEF earlier this year submitted a detailed proposal to USDA for EEP to be used for U.S. pork exports.

"Although the U.S. is the lowest-cost producer of pork in the world, highly-subsidized product from the EC prevents the U.S. from being competitive in the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS)," said Joel Haggard, USMEF vice president of international programs.

"EEP for pork is an incentive for U.S. exporters to make contacts with meat industries in CIS countries. It allows us to get a foot in the door as an initial step in contributing toward the long-term development of the CIS meat infrastructure, rather than sitting back while these countries are dominated by the EC meat industry and its practices," said Haggard.

An invitation for U.S. exporters to apply for EEP bonuses is expected to be issued soon by USDA. The invitation will specify which cuts of pork will be included, as well as the quality and documentation requirements.

"It is very important that the mixture of cuts approved by USDA for the EEP is consistent with cuts that are in demand in the CIS and ones that the U.S. can readily supply," said Mike Skahill, USMEF director of pork programs.

Cyanamid Reports Record Second Quarter

WAYNE, N.J. — American Cyanamid Comapny announced record sales, net earnings, and net earnings per share for the second quarter and first six months of 1992.

Net earnings were $148 million in the second quarter of 1992, a 12 percent increase compared to 1991 second quarter net earnings of $132 million. Net earnings per share in the second quarter of 1992 werer $1.62 per share, 15 percent higher than the $1.41 per share for the same period a year ago.

Second quarter worldwide sales rose 4 percent to $1.48 billion compared to $1.42 billion in the second quarter of 1991.

Worldwide sales and operating earnings of the Agricultural Group rose in the second quarter of 1992 as compared to the same period last year, led by increased worldwide sales of crop protection chemicals. In particular, Pursuit herbicide, used on soybean crops, achieved excellent U.S. sales in the second quarter and first half of this year.

The company's Medical Group achieved increased worldwide sales for the second quarter of 1992 compared to the same period a year ago with sales of ethical pharmaceuticals, standard products, and medical devices leading the performance. Medical Group operating earnings decreased compared to the same period a year ago.

Some key factors impacting the operating results include higher promotional costs associated with the first quarter 1992, U.S. introduction of ProStep transdermal nicotine patch for use as a smoking cessation aid, and costs associated with the expansion of the company's pharmaceutical sales force which began at the end of last year.

Worldwide sales of the Chemicals Group decreased in the second quarter of 1992 versus the same quarter of last year, primarily due to the divestment of several businesses and the discontinuation of certain product lines. Second quarter operating earnings of the Group declined primarily as a result of decreased military demand for chemical light products and higher manufacturing costs for that product line.

Net earnings in the first six months of 1992 increased 11 percent to $262 million versus $237 million for the first six months of last year. Net earnings per share for the first six months of 1992 increased 13 percent to $2.87 per share from $2.53 per share in the first six months of 1991. Because of the seasonality of the agricultural business, performance in the first half of the year is not indicative of the results to be expected for the full year.

Worldwide sales in the first half of 1992 rose 5 percent to $2.86 billion compared to $2.73 billion for the first half of 1991.

Keystone Farm Credit Hires President

SHOEMAKERSVILLE (Berks Co.) — Philip W. Kimmel has been hired as presdient and chief executive officer of Keystone Farm Credit, ACA effective August 24. The announcement was made by Wilmer L. Hostetter, chairman of the Agricultural Credit Association board of directors.

Kimmel is a native of Armstrong County, Pennsylvania. He was graduated from Pennsylvania State University in 1975 with a degree in agricultural economics. He began his Farm Credit career 17 years ago with the Baltimore Farm Credit District as a loan officer trainee in central Pennsylvania.

After advancing to branch manager of the State College office, Kimmel spent approximately 10 years in the Louisville Farm Credit district. While in Louisville, Kimmel held various management positions for both the Farm Credit District Bank and the Mid-American Farm Credit Services, ACA. He comes to Keystone from Northwest Farm Credit Services, ACA in Spokane, Wash. where he held the position of senior vice president/credit.

DMI, Inc. Ecolo-Tiger 527 new coulter unit and original disc unit with new shear-bolt shanks.

New Options For DMI Coulter

GOODFIELD, Ill. — DMI, Inc., manufacturer of conservation yield-till tools, continually updates and creates new options and features to ecologically meet different soil needs, according to Larry VanEtten, DMI product manager.

Recently, DMI added optional shear-bolt shank mountings, MRD (minimum residue disturbance) shanks, and coulter assemblies to its Ecolo-Tiger 527 line of yield-till tools.

Residue management is handled through new coulter assemblies with individually spring-mounted 24-inch coulters, or the original two-row disc assembly with 20-inch disc blades. Both operate hydraulically independently from the tillage section. The new MRD shank options with shin wedges will assist no-till or high-residue management farming practices with minimum residue disturbance.

The Ecolo-Tiger 527 handles air and water management with patented Q/P Tiger-Points, while proper tillage depth is maintained with Quad-S/R spring release shank assemblies or the new shear-bolt shank assemblies for non-rocky areas. The Ecolo-Tiger 527 fits 130 to 175 hp tractors and, depending on individual farmer's needs, it can be equipped to meet any residue and soil requirements.

For further information, contact DMI, Inc., P.O. Box 65, Goodfield, IL 61742-0065, (309) 965-2233.

J-Star Honors Dealers

MADISON, Wisc. — Top Sales Leaders awards, which recognize the top sales leaders for J-STAR's main product lines, were recently presented to several dealers.

The presentation took place at J-STAR's International Dealer Meeting held in Madison, Wisconsin. The meeting gave North American dealers an opportunity to hear about new products, innovations, and programs which J-STAR Industries will be featuring for the balance of 1992.

The meeting featured a 20,000 square feet equipment display of all J-STAR equipment, including seven new product introductions. New products introduced included Oswalt® Model 200/250 Mixer, Starline® Cen-Trak™ Power Drive Unloader, Starline® Feed-Trak Cattle Feeder, Jamesway® Big Jim™ Unloader for steel silos, Oswalt® 1000 Series Polygon Mixer, Hog-Weigh™ Scale, and Beef-Weigh™ Scale.

Holsteins Shine At Franklin Show

BETH MILLER
Franklin Co. Correspondent

ST. THOMAS (Franklin Co.) — Craig and Nikki Woodring had a good night at the Franklin County Holstein Show during the Franklin County Fair.

The animals from their Golden-Wood Holsteins operation of Chambersburg walked away with four of the top awards from the show, which was judged by Robert Morrell of Cochranton.

For starters, Welk-Pride Royalty Sarah, a 4-year-old owned by Golden-Wood, captured grand champion and senior champion honors in the open show.

The same cow then won the best of udder contest. Finally, Golden-Wood was picked as the show's premier exhibitor.

The premier breeder award went to Antrim-Spring Farms, owned by Harold, Rodney, and Roger Crider of Chambersburg.

The reserve grand champion and the reserve senior champion in the open show was Aldina Inspiration Amber, a junior 3-year-old owned by Aldina Holstein of Chambersburg.

In the youth contest, the grand champion and senior champion was Cove Run Reliance Gloria, a 5-year-old shown by Ty W. Christman of Chambersburg.

The youth reserve grand champion and reserve senior champion was Oakleigh Enhancer Molly-ET, a senior 3-year-old shown by Ronald R. Throckmorton of Mercersburg.

During the junior competition, the champion in both the open and youth contests was Windy-Knoll-View Pizzaz-ET, a senior yearling heifer shown by Justin Burdette of Mercersburg.

Meadow-Vu Councelor Dixie, a summer yearling heifer shown by Robert and Rhodena Eckstein of Mercersburg, was tapped as the reserve junior champion in the open show.

The youth reserve junior champion was Windy-Knoll-View Petrina-ET, an intermediate heifer calf shown by Kyle Burdette of Mercersburg.

Windy-Knoll-View of Mercersburg won first place in the junior best three females event. Aldina Holsteins of Chambersburg came in second and Jamie Hartman of St. Thomas finished third.

Meat Export Federation Applauds Agreement

DENVER, Colo. — U.S. Meat Export Federation (USMEF) officials applauded the long-awaited North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) between Mexico, Canada, and the U.S., creating a "free trade zone" for 360 million North American consumers.

"It's a positive step for U.S. meat exports, particularly to Mexico," said USMEF Chairman Joe Hampton. "As income levels go up in Mexico, deamnd for U.S. meat products is sure to grow."

Hampton was quick to point out that both Mexico and Canada in recent years have become leading export markets for U.S. beef, pork, and lamb. U.S. meat exports to Mexico last year were valued at $321 million, making Mexico third only to Japan and Canada in total meat sales. U.S. meat exports to Canada, predominantly beef, totaled $432 million in 1991.

Hampton explained that there currently are no import tariffs on beef or lamb. The agreement will help ensure that none are imposed. Pork, however, is subject to a 20 percent tariff.

"As the duty on pork drops to zero over the nest 10 years, U.S. pork will become increasingly competitive in the Mexican market," said Hampton.

Hampton said the proposed schedule for reducing the pork tariff under NAFTA appears to be preferable to the proposed Dunkel Text designed to jump start the stalled GATT talks earlier this year. Under the GATT proposal, tariffs would be reduced 36 percent from their current levels over seven years. The NAFTA, as understood today by USMEF, will eliminate pork tariffs entirely in 10 years.

Hampton expressed concern, however, over a "snap-back" clause in the NAFTA that would allow Mexico to reimpose tariffs under certain oversupply situations. The details of this provision and the agreement itself have not been released and will require careful study and analysis to determine the precise implications on trade.

Zetor Introduces New Tractors

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) -- The Zetor Division of American Jawa, Ltd. has introduced a new series of 85.7 PTO HP tractors.

Zetor models 9520 and 9540 have 254 cubic inch turbopowered, 4-cylinder, direct injection diesel engines; fully-synchronized transmissions; and a 3-stage torque mutlipiler that provides 18 forward and 6 reverse gears.

They also have a manufacturer's suggested list price of $28,780 for the two-wheel drive Model 9520.1 and $32,650 for the four-wheel drive Model 9540.1.

Standard features on these new Zetor tractors also include a hydraulically-engaged 540/1000 independent PTO, hydrostatic power steering, hydraulic wet disc brakes, and a noise-muffling OSHA cab with dual access and a panoramic view.

For more information, contact any Zetor dealer or Marvin Brown, general manager, Zetor Tractor Division, American Jawa, Ltd., 7301 Allentown Boulevard, Harrisburg, PA 17112.

Zetor models 9520 and 9540 tractors have 254 cubic inch trubopowered, 4-cylinder, direct injection diesel engines; fully-synchronized transmissions; anda 3-stage torque multiplier that provides 18 forward and 6 reverse gears.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $124 Million in Extra Payments

Robert B. McSparran
President

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past five years, we returned more than $124 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $35,500 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.5 million a month.

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds
BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.
MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.
ON-FARM MIXING
A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that
• BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
• BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
• BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
• BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

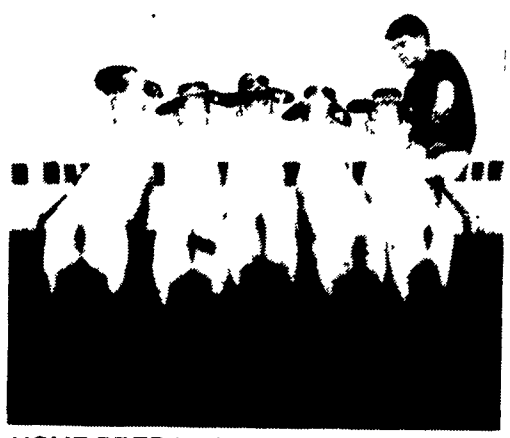
MEAT MATTERS MOST



HOME BRED lambs like these have been winning for me and my buyers in the Mid-Atlantic area. They LOOK GOOD. They HANDLE GOOD. They CUT GOOD. My latest triumph was Grand Champion carcass at the 1991 Keystone International Livestock Exposition. Check these stats.

IXL Anti-friction Metal Conditioner

Efficiency is our Newest Resource

Science brings a new dimension to Anti-Friction
A metal conditioner product ahead of its time, IXL will give your equipment priceless protection. IXL gives protection far superior to just oil or lubricants. IXL is specifically designed to be used in: (NEW) and (USED) gasoline & diesel engines, compressors, automatic & manual transmissions, hydraulics, gear boxes, bearings of all types, turbos, pumps, and much more. IXL is a metal conditioner which treats all ferrous metals 3 to 5 microns deep, thereby making the metal surfaces harder, denser and smoother. These results are minimum metal wear, giving maximum engine and machine life. IXL reduces heat, friction, and wear, up to 75% without changing tolerances, reducing friction will release energy previously expended to overcome ordinary mechanical resistance. This energy is now available as a positive force, working to increase power, performance and fuel savings. IXL also helps maintain and recondition seals and gaskets, by keeping these items pliable, firm, and flexible. It will help prevent leaks, IXL is not a lubricant fortifier, such as PTFE, Moly, or graphite. IXL is biodegradable, NON-TOXIC and environmentally safe. IXL is one of the highest quality products on the market today. IXL is satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

New Pennsylvania Realty, Inc. is proud to announce the appointment of BERNIE FLORY as Farm Agent for Berks, Lehigh, Northampton, Montgomery and Bucks Counties.

New Pennsylvania Realty, Inc. has been specializing in agricultural properties since 1975. The addition of Bernie will allow us to expand our service area to encompass all of Eastern Pennsylvania.

All of our Farm Agents are very familiar with all aspects of farming and farm real estate. Bernie continues with this tradition. He was born and raised on a dairy and crop farm in Northampton County, which his parents and he own. Bernie has a strong agri-business background which includes 5 years with a feed and supply cooperative and, most recently, 13 years with the Farm Credit system.

If you are considering buying or selling a farm, call Bernie to discuss your current or future needs.

MASTER MIX

SILO-BOOSTER

REDUCING THE LEVEL OF NITRATE IN HEAT STRESSED CORN SILAGE

Why should you use Master Mix SILO-BOOSTER instead of another product? SILO-BOOSTER has been proven in 23 years of on-farm use, as well as in continuous university research. With each new discovery in silage science, we have improved the original formula. Today's SILO-BOOSTER gives the most efficient silage innoculant yet developed.

Laboratory analysis of both treated and untreated silages confirms the increased production of lactic acid by the bacterial cultures in SILO-BOOSTER.

	SILO-BOOSTER TREATED	CONTROL
Lactic acid % (average of 11 measurements from day 1 to day 30)	2.35%	1.83%
pH (average of 11 measurements from day 1 to day 30)	3.98%	3.96%

While both silages showed very similar changes in total pH change; the SILO-BOOSTER treated silage contained more lactic acid. The homofermentive production of lactic acid by SILO-BOOSTER cultures reduces the potential for dry matter losses and the generation of excessive heat of fermentation.

COMPARISON OF SILO-BOOSTER TREATED AND CONTROL SILAGES

Fed To High Producing Dairy Cows
Conducted At The University of Wisconsin

	SILO-BOOSTER SILAGE	CONTROL
Milk (Lb./day)	87.3	86.2	NS
Fat %	3.84	3.88	NS
Forage DM Intake (Lb./day)	26.97	29.99	**
Conc. DM Intake (Lb./day)	27.45	26.78	NS
Total DM Intake (Lb. day)	54.31	56.77	*
DM/Lb. Milk	0.65	0.69	**

N.S. - non significant, *<5%, <1%
Statistics conducted on weekly totals.

SILO-BOOSTER treated silage was able to generate income per ton of forage feed. With milk valued at $ .125 per pound; butterfat at $ .17 per point; forage at $ .045 per pound of dry matter, and the concentrate portions at $ .08 per pound; SILO-BOOSTER silage returned $4.90 for each $1.00 invested in inoculant.

APPLICATION: 1 Lb. of SILO-BOOSTER per ton of Forage.
2 Lbs. of SILO-BOOSTER per ton of High Moisture Ear Corn.

Add Feed Value To This Year's Silage By Reducing Costly Fermentation Losses

Ram Lamb, Ewe Sale Draws Winners

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center wishes to announce the results of Pennsylvania's 14th Performance-tested Ram Lamb and Invitational Ewe Sale conducted August 1 in conjunction with Pennsylvania's Sheep Producer's Field Day.

The activities began about 9:30 a.m. From 10 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. there were tours to Penn State's Haller Farm. The Haller Farm tour was hosted by Pete LeVan, manager of Haller farm, who discussed the fencing systems in use there, the dual species grazing projects, and the rotational grazing that is practiced under very practical conditions.

The ram sale got under way at 1:30 p.m. The fall-born Dorsets led off the sale and achieved the high sale-group average. The seven fall-born Dorsets averaged $392. The second ram in the ring achieved the highest price of the day. This ram consigned by Dick Kuzemchak of Pleasant Gap sold to James and Joanne Evans of Coatesville for $700. The second highest selling Dorset was also the second highest selling animal in the sale. This Penn State-owned ram sold to Andrew Freeman for $450.

The seven junior Dorset rams averaged $228. The top selling ram in this group was consigned by Penn State, purchased by Dean Girtori, Robert Houston, and Jim and Cathy Smith for $325.

The two fall-born Suffolks sold for an average of $262. Both these rams were consigned by Lauden Acres and sold to Troy Ness for $325 and John Rockfellow for $200. The 13 Junior Suffold rams sold for an average of $157.

The top-indexing Suffolk consigned by Pine Haven Farm sold to Dean Sornberger for $325, the second highest price returned on a junior Suffolk. The high price of the day of $400 on a junior suffolk was offered by Jerry Goodrich of Port Allegheny on the ram bred by Gerald and Sue Clair.

The senior Hampshire ram sold to Byron Hughes for $150. The six junior Hampshire rams averaged $166. The top-selling Hampshire was the second highest indexing consignment from Thomas Nickeson, which sold to High Wind Farm of Groton, N.Y. for $325.

The two Katahdin rams consigned by Lyn-Lee Farm sold to Winston Apple of Madison, Va. for $100 each. The Montadale ram consigned by Sarah Hall sold to Marie Anne Keeney for $100. The Polypay owned by Carberry Hill Farm sold to Albert Knoblack of Confluence for $300. The last ram in the sale was the Tunis from Neil and Barbara Carstensen, which sold to Leah Bomberger for $225.

The invitational ewe sale started with 26 Dorset ewes. These Dorsets sold for an average of $146. Eight Suffolk ewes sold next with an average selling price of $119. The eight Hampshire ewes returned an average of $125 and two Polypay ewes sold for $125 each.

The 43 purebred ewes averaged $137, with all of the ewes being sold for the minimum bid or higher. Attendance for the activities was estimated at 300.

The sale was called by Dave Harpster of Boalsburg. Sale management was provided by Glenn Eberly.

New Name For Poultry Meeting

GEORGETOWN, Del. — It has a new name, the National Meeting on Poultry Health and Processing, but the high quality associated with this Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI) internationally recognized meeting will continue.

More than 600 poultry industry personnel from throughout the United States and several foreign nations are expected in Ocean City, Md., October 15 and 16 for the 27th gathering of poultry health, live production, and processing personnel.

When the first meeting was held in 1966 in Salisbury, Md., it was the National Meeting on Poultry Condemnations. The name changed to the National Meeting on Poultry Health and Condemnations in 1974 to better reflect the content of the program.

For the same reason, the new name was adopted this year. "Over the years, there have been more presentations on a wider variety of processing plant subjects and the new name indicates that change in emphasis," said Dr. Mark A. Dekich, chairman of the meeting.

This nationally acclaimed meeting will have concurrent sessions on live production topics and processing plant issues. The general session is expected to be a major attraction.

Scheduled to speak are the administrator of the United States Department of Agriculture's Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) Dr. H. Russell Cross; the service's former administrator, Dr. Lester M. Crawford; and Dr. William O. James of the USDA. Cross will provide a review of FSIS programs and explain where the agency is heading. Crawford, now executive vice president of the National Food Processors Association, will speak about consumer confidence in the nation's food supply. James, director of USDA's slaughter inspection standards and procedures division will present information on the agency's food safety research in Puerto Rico.

The growout session on Thursday, October 15 will focus on biotechnology and its role in poultry health, with presentation on ascites and Mareks disease as well. The emphasis on Friday, October 16 will be on infectious bronchitis, including developments in several poultry producing areas of the U.S. and worldwide.

Poultry health topics for the two days are:

- Biotechonoloy-where are we? what lies ahead?
- Poultry viral vaccine vectors: Avipox
- Poultry viral vaccine vectors: Herpesvirus
- Baculovirus system for poultry vaccines
- Biotechnology diagnostics of infectious diseases
- Biotechnology and new considerations for vaccine development for coccidiosis
- USDA licensing of genetically engineered vaccines
- Ascites overview
- Management of ascites-worldwide perspective
- Turkey rhinotracheitis-clinical aspects
- Turkey rhinotracheitis-virus isolation and serology
- International perspective of infectious bronchitis
- Field experiences with bronchitis-Delmarva, Georgia, Mississippi
- Bronchitis overview: evolution of the virus
- Characterization of infectious bronchitis virus isolates obtained from Delmarva broilers

The one-day processing session will present topics designed to help processing plant and complex managers produce quality chicken products while improving their efficiencies. The subjects to be covered are:

- Cage washing and reduction of bacterial load
- Ways to reduce downgrades and condemnations
- Labor reduction through automation
- New developments in live haul catching systems
- Waste reduction and environmentally friendly packaging
- New processing procedures to improve product quality
- OSHA's ergonomic agreement with ConAgra Broiler Co.

Further information can be obtained by contacting DPI at (302) 856-9037 and R.D. 2, Box 47, Georgetown, DE 19947-9622.

FEED GRAIN CONCERNS

Every so often unusual environmental conditions occur that have an effect on our crops. Occasionally, these conditions are detrimental to plants or the grain they produce.

This year conditions have favored the growth on wheat of a fungus called Fusarium, which causes the disease known as scab. Scab in wheat is usually observable as a bleaching of the wheat heads either the entire head or just part of it.

What does this have to do with swine? The problem is when the grain is used for hog feed. Fusarium fungus produces mycotoxins, which have a negative impact on animal health. Grain from infected fields may be less palatable to livestock than unaffected grain. Mycotoxins also can induce muscle spasms and vomiting in non-ruminating animals.

The mycotoxin in question is zearalenone and can be produced on many different crops including corn, wheat, sorghum, barley, and oats. Growth of the fungus can occur in the field or in storage, but conditions for growth are optimum at temperatures of 20-25 degrees Celsius and moisture greater than 23 percent (45 percent is optimal).

Production of zearalenone by the fungus is stimulated when the moisture in the grain is high and environmental temperatures drop to about 15 degrees c. In other words, our warm days have helped the Fusarium become established, and the cool nights have encouraged the mycotoxin zearalenone to be produced by the fungus.

One of the effects of zearalenone in swine is the swelling of the vulva and mammary glands in prepubertal gilts. In young male pigs, feminization can occur, including shrinking of the testicles and swelling of the prepuce and mammary glands. High levels of zearalenone in sows can cause infertility, constant estrus, reduced litter size and, occasionally, small or malformed pigs. In the boar, no detrimental reproductive effects have been observed.

Another mycotoxin that can be produced by Fusarium species and that can cause injurious effects in swine is deoxynivalenol. With this mycotoxin, also known as vomitoxin, vomiting and feed refusal is common. As little as 10 parts per million of this mycotoxin will result in feed refusal in swine and a subsequent reduction in growth rate.

Other mycotoxins, if present in large enough quantities, can affect livestock.

Take care to determine the quality of the feedstuffs you use. If conditions warrant it, test feeds for the presence of mycotoxins. These tests can be expensive to run and several labs are required to quantify mycotoxin levels.

On the preventative side, work to ensure that the grains and commercial feeds you use are handled properly. Avoid getting dry feeds/grains wet, because moisture is necessary for the fungus to proliferate. When handling grains and mixed feeds, watch for areas of mold or spoilage. Always remove spoiled feed, since the concentration of both the fungus and mycotoxins may be far greater in spoiled areas then others when compared to the rest of the feed.

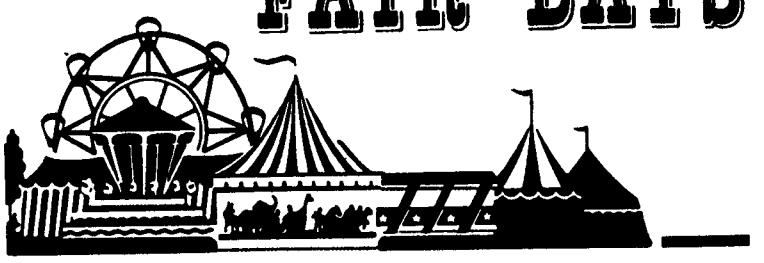
Unfortunately, removal of spoiled feed may not protect animals from the mycotoxins these compounds are not readily visible. The only way to be sure is to test the feedstuffs.

Probably the single most important thing you can do as a hog producer is to watch your livestock carefully and monitor their performance. If you notice unusual symptoms in your animals or a decrease in performance, including fluctations in feed intake, feed efficiency or growth rate, consider the presence of mycotoxins as a probable cause. Then contact your local extension office, feed dealer, veterinarian, or feed lab and find out how to test for the presence of these compounds in your feed.

Hog producers who keep good records to monitor the growth rate, feed efficiency, and feed intake of their hogs are ahead of the game. These performance traits can be used as tools to evaluate new rations, feed additives, and genetics as well as problems in herd health or feeding program.

So this year, be on the lookout for changes in the performance of your livestock, especially if you are feeding wheat as a part of swine diets. And remember, if current environmental conditions persist, similar fungus organisms can also grow on other types of feed grains, which could result in similar mycotoxin problems.

FAIR DAYS



Denver Fair

When you think of fall, what comes to mind? Changing of temperatures? Changing color of leaves? Children going back to school? Harvest time?

Along with the harvesting of one's summer labor of love (whether it be in a small garden or in a field) comes the satisfaction of a job well done.

You can win a ribbon to add to that feeling of satisfaction at the Denver Community Fair, September 15-19. The fair will be held in the Denver Memorial Park, on Main Street, Denver.

The fairgrounds are located about two miles from exit 21 of the Pennsylvania Turnpike. For specific directions, call the Denver Borough office, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., (215)267-2831 or (215)267-4072 (and leave a message).

Exhibits will be received on the fairgrounds in the Denver Memorial Park on Monday, September 14, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. The exhibits should be taken to the upper level of the park.

Exhibitors must register their name, address, and phone number. The exhibit number can be picked up at either the entrance of the Recreation Center (which will house arts and crafts, photography, needlework, baked goods, and canned goods).

Exhibits and premiums may be picked up Saturday, September 19 at 9 p.m. No early removals will be allowed.

There are best-of-show trophies awarded in both adult and youth divisions for arts, crafts, photography, needlecraft, and elementary art. Call (215)267-5351 for exhibit information.

IF YOU NEED SPEED IN HANDLING YOUR FORAGE CROP, YOU NEED A RICHARDTON FROM BINKLEY & HURST BROS. INC...

Save $ With A Richardton Dump Wagon - May Replace UP To 3 Forage Boxes In Your Operation!

BINKLEY & HURST IS YOUR RICHARDTON DEALER - WITH EXPERIENCE TO YOUR NEEDS-CALL OR STOP IN NOW!

GET YOUR CROP OUT FASTER WITH THE 900 DUMP WAGON

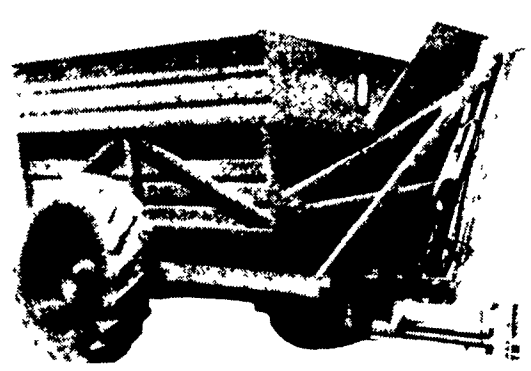
Here's real versatility. Adjust the Richardton Row Crop 900 Dump Wagon tread width from 60" anywhere up to 90" to fit various row crop widths. Adjust hitch height and length to fit your needs.

Easily convert the wagon to left or right hand dumping. Roll smoothly over the ditches and deadfurrows with oscillating walking tandem running gear.

The 900 wagon loads low to reduce crop damage, but can fill haul trucks at any height from 7', 4" up to 10', 10". A 36" wide lip with an 8" rubber apron gently guides all fruits and vegetables to the truck box center with minimum drop distance.

Put 18,000 lbs. of fresh crop in a haul truck in two minutes or less and get back to harvesting. Rugged design takes only minimum servicing and it's backed up by an outstanding warranty. That's versatility...that's the Richardton advantage!

RICHARDTON



AT LAST! A BIG, POWERFUL DUMP WAGON FOR ALL CORN AND BEET HANDLING.

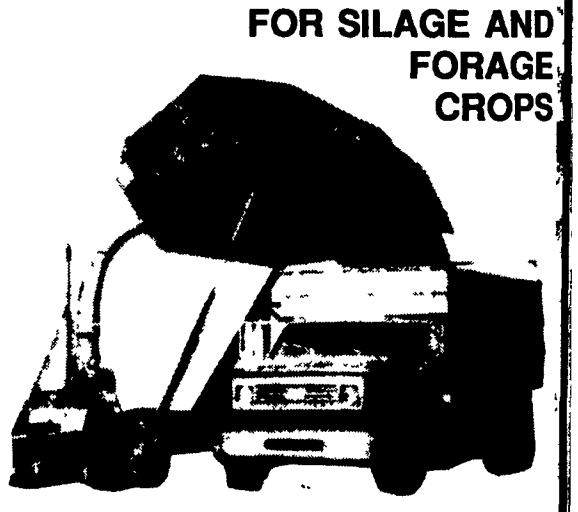
Keep your trucks on the road and out of the field by harvesting directly into a big, rugged Richardton 960 Dump Wagon. Designed for producers who want big 20,000 lb. capacity, dependable, low maintenance wagons backed up by an outstanding warranty... that's the Richardton advantage.

Get a step ahead with the fast, efficient RICHARDTON 960 DUMP WAGON

Featuring 550 cu. ft. capacity/for 700 cu. ft. flared box option, low 7' or 9' loading height, 48-degree dumping angle, high variable 8'4" to 15' dumping height, rugged/minimum maintenance, adjustable ground clearance, adjustable hitch height/length, under 2-minute dumping time, optional hydraulic hitch cylinder.

• SWEET CORN • SEED CORN • EAR CORN
• SUGARBEETS • POTATOES

YOU'LL NEVER FIND A BETTER FORAGE WAGON FOR SILAGE AND FORAGE CROPS



RICHARDTON — A Step Ahead For Farmers...

The new 700 series wagon diagonal slide system allows truck drivers close access to the dump wagon and reaches out to put loads in the center of the box. And the 45-degree dump angle makes this wagon self-cleaning.

Two models with rugged frames are built to handle either 750 cu. ft. or 1,000 cut. ft. loads.

The wide undercarriage and low profile lower the center of gravity for greater stability on hilly fields.

An adjustable offset hitch is standard to match row crop spacings and the vented roof allows straight-through air flow. Richardton double-reinforced boxes are built to handle up to 30,000 lb. loads with ease.

BINKLEY & HURST BROS., INC. HAS ALL YOUR HEAVY DUTY TILLAGE NEEDS!

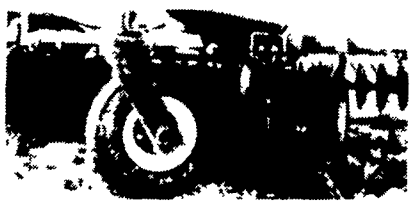
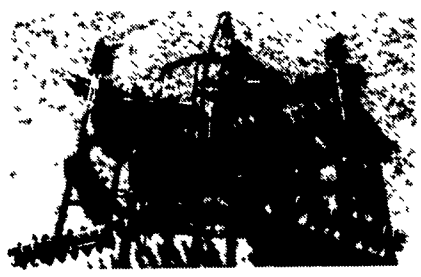
The Secret To A Level Field Is The Sunflower GAUGE WHEELS



A trademark on all FLEXIBLE Sunflower Discs is Front-Mounted Gauge Wheels. This Important Feature Prevents the Front Gangs Of The Wing Frame From Gouging, Buckling or Cutting Deeper Than The Other Gangs, Promoting A Level Ridge Or Furrow-Free Field. The Heavy Duty Gauge Wheel Features A 5-Bolt Hub And 8.00x10 Ply Tire & Tube.



DOUBLE OFFSET DESIGN

Eliminates center ridging while cutting the entire width at an even depth. Self-leveling hitch provides fore & aft leveling at any working depth.

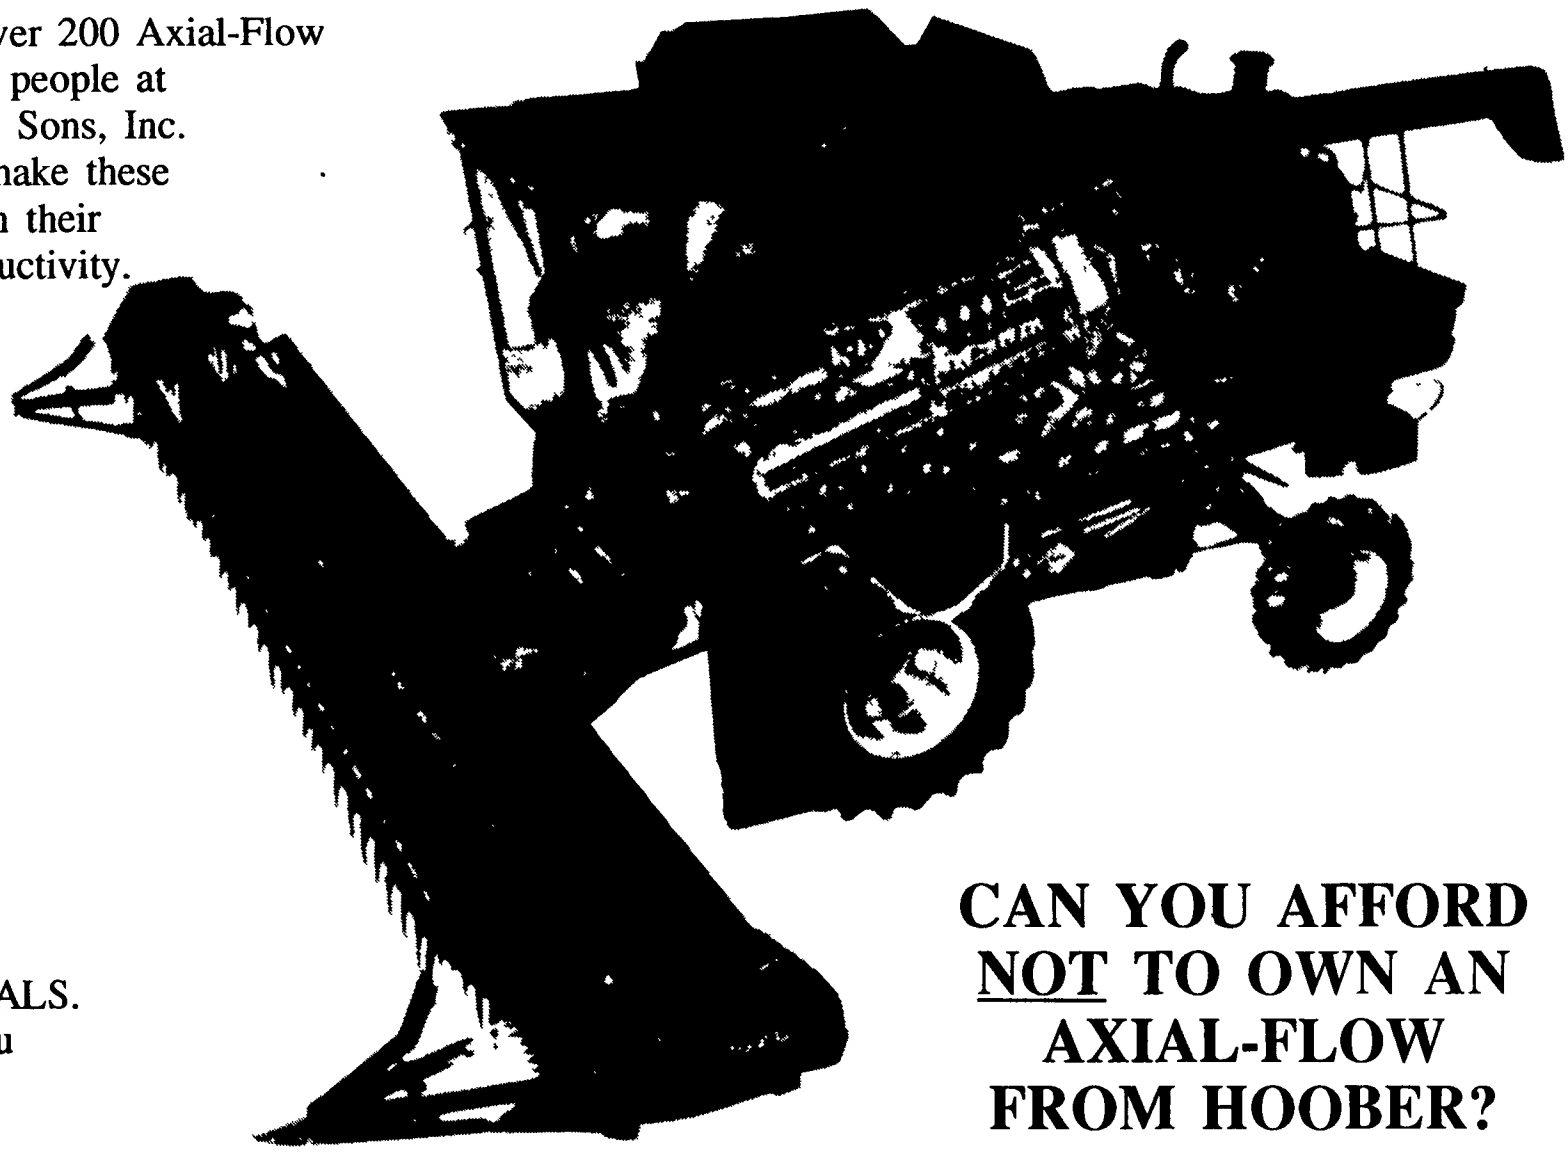
HOOBER PEOPLE MAKE AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES PRODUCE FOR YOU!

By servicing over 200 Axial-Flow Combines, The people at C.B. Hoober & Sons, Inc. know how to make these Combines reach their maximum productivity.



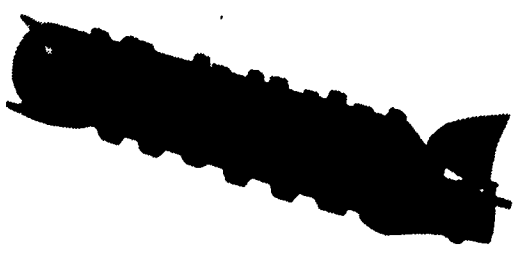
Talk to an owner of a combine serviced by HOOBER'S COMBINE PROFESSIONALS. They'll tell you how they produce.

CAN YOU AFFORD NOT TO OWN AN AXIAL-FLOW FROM HOOBER?

The Reason Axial-Flow Combines Are More Productive - THE ROTOR!

The Single Rotor design is SIMPLE!

Only a single rotor to thresh and separate. Eliminates the straw-



walker assemblies common to conventional combines. Less moving parts means less maintenance, less downtime.

The Single Rotor Design is HIGHER QUALITY GRAIN

Multiple threshing action of axial-flow reduces kernal damage and holds elevator dockage to a minimum.

The Single Rotor Design Is MORE PRODUCTIVITY!

When your crops are ripe and ready to harvest, Axial-Flow allows you to move faster than with a conventional combine. The rotor's large throat means no bottle-necks up front. You'll be able to harvest at top speed for maximum productivity, even on side-hills.

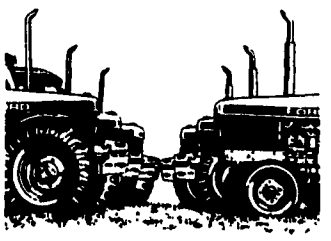
Built Ford tough!

Power up with Ford PowerStar™ tractors

The new standard in 66 to 106 hp!

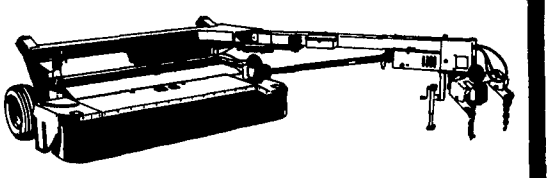
6640 & 7740 IN STOCK!

- Six new models
- 2WD and 4WD
- Efficient, new Genesis™ engines
- Versatile, hard-working hydraulics
- Roomy new deck designs
- Comfortable cabs
- New transmission choices, including the 16x16 Pulse Command™



Come on in and we'll show you the model ready to work for you!

Dependable Discbine® performance Now wider!



You'll love the wide-cutting performance of the new Model 415 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner. Seven discs make an 11½-foot cut to cover acres fast, and with the New Holland torsion bar roll pressure system, you'll condition thoroughly without plugging. Stop in soon and let us show you the big performance of the new "415."

Now get better bales from a better baler

Solid, stackable bales. And unsurpassed baler capacity.

You'll get it all from New Holland square balers.

The Models 570 and 575 feature a revolutionary rotary feeder that is tender on alfalfa . . . while handling lots of crop.

The Model 565 features a beefed-up Flow-Action® feeding system for big capacity.

For the best combination of capacity, reliability and quality in the industry, visit us today . . . your Ford New Holland dealer.

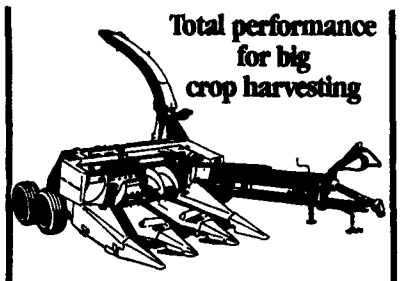
Seeing is believing

Every minute you can save at the blower means more loads per day and more overall productivity. Let us demonstrate the New Holland Model 40 forage blower and we believe you'll agree you can increase your silage productivity.

The Model 40, with 20 percent greater tip speed than previous models, center fills silos over 80 feet high. The Whirl-A-Feed® table spins the crop into the blower housing at high speed, making more efficient use of your tractor's horsepower.

See us soon for a demonstration of the Model 40.

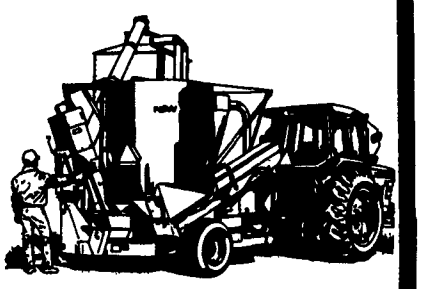
Total performance for big crop harvesting



You get total performance when you harvest your crops with a Model 900 forage harvester. Total performance begins at the cutterhead. The 12 knives of the 21-inch cutterhead give you uniformly cut, high-quality forage. Other features on the "900" include:

- Optional Metalert® II electronic metal detector—protects cutterhead and your valuable animals.
- Electromagnetic clutches—give instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Easy-adjust shearbar—makes adjustment fast and precise.

Stop in soon and see the Model 900.

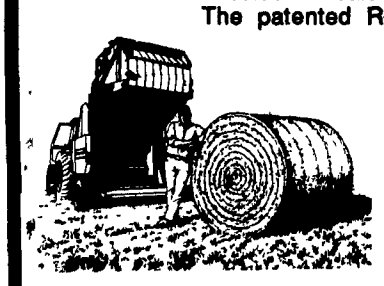


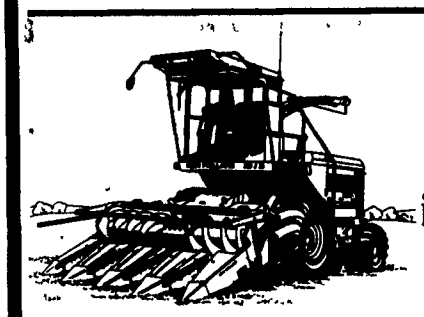
First in durability

Surveys show owners rate New Holland grinder-mixers as the most durable. That's because Ford New Holland builds them right and backs them with quality parts and service. The Model 358 has a 125-bushel tank that's specially designed to eliminate bridging. An optional electronic scale assures accurate control of rations. Stop in and see the durable Model 358 grinder-mixer.

NEW! Exclusive design produces best-ever bales

The unique New Holland Models 650 and 660 Roll-Belt™ round balers make the best quality bales ever. Tight bales — dense bales. Good-looking, square-shouldered bales that hold up to the weather. The patented Roll-Belt™ design means fast, sure core formation, even in the toughest crops. The adjustable hydraulic belt-tensioning system puts maximum bale density control at your fingertips. And, you can choose from three optional automatic tying mechanisms for the smoothest package ever.

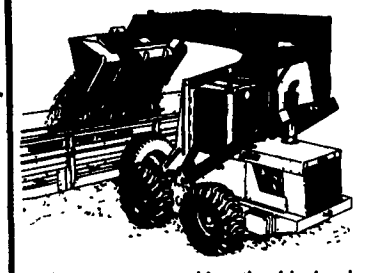




Harvest your crop with the best in self-propelled harvesting

If you custom harvest as well as chop your own forage, self-propelled harvester like the Model 1915 can help you harvest more crop at peak quality. The fuel-efficient 270-horsepower diesel engine and the 24-inch, 12-knife cutterhead give you high-capacity day-in and day-out harvesting. And the exclusive automatic knife sharpener and automatic shearbar adjuster, called Accucut™, combine to give you precision-sharpened knives and a reset shearbar, all from the comfort of the cab.

Stop in today and let us show you the other features of the "1915". Or better yet, let's set up a time to demonstrate this harvester in your own field.



Load... unload faster and easier

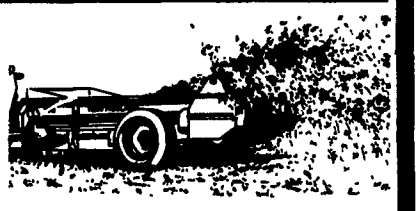
When you're working the big loads you need the Super Boom advantage — extra reach.

With more forward dump reach you can center load your largest spreader from one side so you get an even load. The result: faster loading, fuller loads and easier unloading.

With level bucket lift you load more and lift higher... with less spillback. And, with a longer wheelbase there's more stability and safety. So, why get stuck with anything else?

Find out just how good a skid-steer loader can be.

We have a spreader for any farm



Ford New Holland offers six quality spreaders to match any farming operation. All New Holland spreaders clean out fast to make quick work of dirty jobs.

- Bonded Protection, the exclusive lifetime guarantee, covers the polyethylene floor and steel sides. Ask us for details
- Corrosion-resistant steels are used throughout for tough, long-lasting construction.
- Plus adding optional slurry sides on the Models 145, 155 and 185 increases capacity up to 25% at a fraction of the cost.

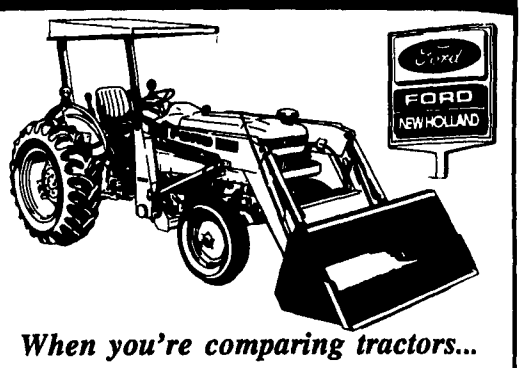
LANDSCAPING



When you're comparing tractors...

FORD OFFERS THE LANDSCAPER MORE

Top link sensing on Ford 32- to 55-PTO-hp tractors offers the ultimate in 3-point control for implement or blade work. Two-lever control allows precise adjustment for proper depth and pull requirements.

Check out these other performance features:

- Deluxe closed-center hydraulics let you adjust the flow rate for each remote
- Hydraulic and draft/position controls are within easy, natural reach to the right
- Optional 8x8 synchronized transmission allows easy shifting on-the-go
- Standard telescoping stabilizer and flexible link ends allow fast, easy hook up.

When it comes to landscaping, no other utility tractor compares to Ford. Let us demonstrate.

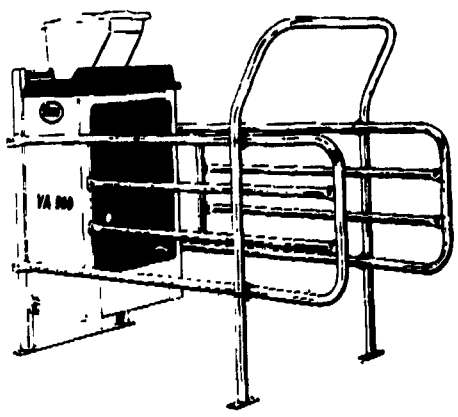
With this concentrate feeding system LESS MEANS MORE

Dairymen report a 7-8% increase in milk yield with 5% less concentrate input with the new VA 500.

Each cow's ration is fed automatically according to her individual lactation curve. Feeding for production means high producing cows get more. Every cow pays her way. The whole herd can be housed together and you don't need complicated computer support systems for operation.



Make your concentrate work harder.

WE HAVE A SILO TO MEET ANY AND ALL OF YOUR STORAGE NEEDS!!!

When planning your forage programs, remember that your main objective is to "store the plant and remove it from storage in as good condition as possible." THE UPRIGHT SILO HAS NEVER BEEN EQUALLED IN ITS ABILITY TO DO THIS.

As herds become larger and labor is becoming more costly and scarce, there is more need to cut time requirements for all parts of the operation. The silo, or a combination of silos can be a key in reducing time spent harvesting, storing, and feeding your herd. "A properly managed upright silo is one of the best investments that a dairy farmer can make. "YOUR BEST CHOICE IS A POURED CONCRETE SILO.

CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF OUR POURED CONCRETE SOLLENBERGER SILOS.

THIS IS THE KIND OF SILO YOU NEED TO STORE YOUR VALUABLE FEEDS!

NO PREOWNED SILOS!

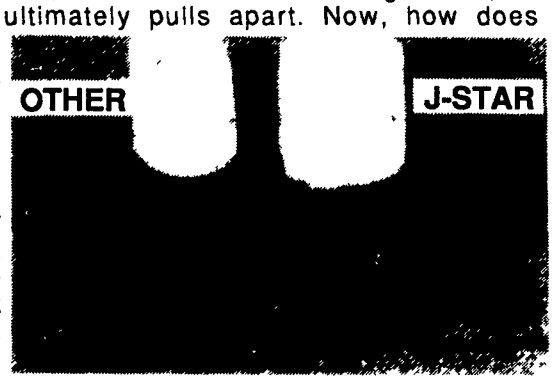
J-STAR BARN CLEANER CHAIN - Face The Facts

FICTION: The Stronger the Chain the Longer it will Last...

FACT 1. The life of barn cleaner chain is not directly affected by its tensile strength. The strength of a new chain considerably exceeds the maximum pull of the drive unit. For example, the pull of a J-Star model 750 drive unit - the heaviest and fastest drive on the market - is only 33% of the tensile strength of J-Star's hook link chain. Enough said!!!

FICTION: All Hook Link Chain is Basically Alike...

FACT 2. The life of barn cleaner chain, for a given installation, is affected by its wear area and hardness. The greater the wear area, and/or the harder the wearing surface, the longer a link will wear before it ultimately pulls apart. Now, how does J-Star chain stack up?



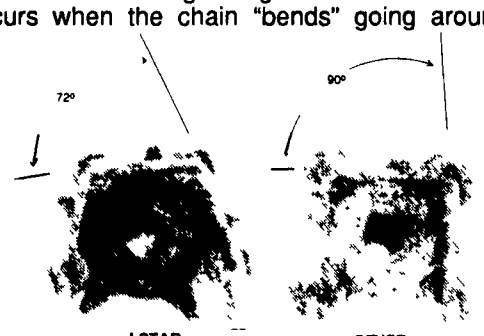
* J-Star chain is hardened by the same process to the same hardness range as all competitive hook link chain — NO DIFFERENCE HERE!

BUT...

* The first point in a chain to fail from wear is usually the end of the eye. J-Star chain, as compared to the other brand for example, has 35% more area in the hook link eye. Note the graphic difference shown below.

FICTION: The Life of a Barn Cleaner Chain has Nothing to do with the Kind of Drive Unit Used With It...

FACT 3. A chain wears at the point where the links contact one another. The rate of wear for a given installation increases as the amount of "grinding" between hook and mating eye increases. This "grinding" occurs when the chain "bends" going around corners, such as corner wheels, reverse curves, hold-down shoes or wheels, and around drive sprockets. Most competitive barn cleaners are about equal in the degree to which they "bend" the chain going through most of these points. HOWEVER - hook link chain does "grind" less when it goes around the J-Star 5-tooth drive sprocket than when it goes around the other brand 4-tooth sprocket.



All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.

You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain of the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.
